EAGER TO WED 'PAT THE SHEIK'

MRS. FLORENCE WALLACE

Brighton woman who says if Mrs. Patterson obtains her divorce, she will obtain her own freedom and become "Pat's" bride.

OFFERS KISSES BY THE MILLION

Follow more of "Pat the Sheik's" love letters. "Pat" being James W. Patterson, wealthy automobile dealer, termed "Sheik" by Mrs. Edith Belcher of Arlington.

He was a wholesale wooer, according to a dozen women who believed themselves his "only dearest child" until he was made a defendant in divorce proceedings following a 4 a. m. raid, in which he was arrested with Mrs. Florence Wallace.

ENDLESS LOVE.

Mrs. Wallace openly declares her love for Patterson, and says Mrs.

NATIONS MUST COOPERATE TO END WAR, MRS. PARK SAYS

Chicago, July 16.—There is real danger of wars unless there can be co-operation, not merely between this country and European countries, but between the countries of Europe, Mrs. Maud Wood Park, president of the National League of Women Voters, told the executive committee of the league at its first meeting today after her return from a "woman to woman" tour abroad.

The executive committee passed a resolution reiterating the league's endorsement of the United States adhering to the World Court in the form which that proposal was submitted to the Senate last February.

2 SINN FEINERS DEPORTED BY AUSTRALIAN OFFICIALS

Sydney, Australia, July 16.—Two Irish Republicans, Father Michael O'Flanagan and John J. (Beau) O'Kelly, arrested here in April on charges of engaging in seditious activities, were removed from jail today and escorted aboard the Steamer Mongolia shortly before it sailed.

Ten days ago they were offered their release on provision that they agree not to address public meetings and later declined another offer to leave the country voluntarily.

It was announced the deported men would be landed in England and then sent to the Irish Free State.

FOUR MORE LYNN BREAKS, WEEK'S TOTAL REACHES 28

Four burglaries in Lynn over the week end brought the total for seven days up to twenty-eight. All breaks are laid to two men who have been seen leaving properties where later breaks were discovered.

Forty dollars was taken from the safe of J. Mars Harriman, druggist, at No. 239 Union street. The store of Wesley Parker, Lynfield street, was ransacked and tobacco stock taken. Seventeen dollars was taken from the home of Robert W. Haskill, No. 15 Shepard street, and the office of the Wheeler Bottling Co., No. 251 Summer street, was entered but the men scared away just before they succeeded in opening a safe.

KNOCKS WOMAN FLAT; CAPTURED AFTER CHASE

Ollie Chouch of No. 59 Lowell street, Peabody, walked into the Boston & Maine station in Lynn today, spoke to Mrs. Frances Mannird of No. 1 Randall street, Salem, then knocked her flat with a blow in the mouth.

Chouch then ran down the stairs, across Central square and up a side street as more than two-score angry spectators gave chase, shouting to passing motorists to join.

He was captured three-fourths of a mile away on Nahant street.

Judge Ralph Reeve fined him $25 in Lynn district court after Mrs. Mannird had informed the court that Chouch had annoyed her for some time past with his attentions.

The court bound him to keep the peace and remain away from the woman, who is the wife of one of his cousins.

QUIT SPENDING FOR BANKER'S CAPTURE

Chicago, July 16.—Lloyds will probably make no further effort to bring Warren C. Spurgin, missing banker, back from Mexico where he has been reported definitely located, ill and penniless.

Lloyds offer of $5,000 reward for his return still holds good, but this company has spent all it intends to spend in bringing about his capture," John S. Lord, Chicago representative of Lloyds, said today.

The disappearance of Spurgin two years ago cost depositors of the Michigan Avenue Trust Company more than a million dollars.

2 KILLED AT TRAIN CROSSING

Girl Fatally Injured in Crash When Truck's Wheels Fail to Hold on Slippery Road

Two men were killed instantly and a girl was probably fatally injured when an automobile truck was struck by a Boston & Maine train at Milford, N. H., crossing today.

The dead:

L. Wilbur Moore, nineteen, of No. 25 State street, Lynn, a chauffeur.

Harry W. Cheever, Keene, N. H., driver of the machine.

Mary Cheever, daughter of the dead man, a passenger on the truck, suffered a fracture of the skull and internal injuries.

Cheever, noting the approach of the train when a short distance from the crossing, attempting to stop the truck by throwing on the emergency brakes.

Owing to the slippery condition of the road, the wheels failed to hold and the truck slid on the rails.

Moore was identified by a chauffeur's license in his pocket. Chief of Police Sweeney of Milford notified Lynn police.

When officers came to notify the boy's mother, Mrs. Emma Bill, they found her sitting in a window of her home watching for the postman for her regular Monday morning letters from her son.

Since he went to work for Cheever several weeks ago, Moore always wrote his mother every Saturday after getting his pay and enclosed part of his wages.

NEGROES PROTEST ON GARVEY'S CONVICTION

Washington, July 16.—A protest from many Negroes throughout the country against the recent conviction in New York of Marcus Garvey, head of the Universal Negro Improvement Association, was voiced today in scores of telegrams addressed to the Washington office of the Associated Press. Each of the messages represented a sentiment said to have been expressed at a Negro mass meeting yesterday.

TURKS ACCEPT PLAN TO REOPEN PARLEYS

Lausanne, July 16 (AP).—The Turkish delegation to the Near East peace conference announced today that it had accepted the proposal of the Allies to reopen the joint meetings of the experts in an attempt to agree upon satisfactory formulas concerning the questions yet in dispute, notably those concerning concessions in Turkey. The Allies made this proposal last night in an effort to break the deadlock.

BREAK IN PHONE STRIKE

Five Girls Desert Strikers' Ranks and Get Their Jobs Back

The first break in the telephone operators' strike at Lawrence occurred today when five pickets returned to their switchboards.

Four of the operators are members of the Boston Telephone Operators' Union. Their action was a blow to the morale of the strikers.

A mass meeting was called to buoy up the girls still out.

In Boston the operators announced today they were now squarely for a seven-hour day and increased wages.

ORIGINAL DEMANDS.

Refusal of telephone officials to adhere to the requests of New England mayors to arbitrate caused Miss Julia S. O'Connor to declare that the girls "will war to the bitter end for the original demands, more pay and less work."

A telephone probe is now in the making with the American Federation of Labor behind it.

At a Salsbath labor meeting a resolution was unanimously adopted to invoke the initiative and referendum to demand that the whole telephone situation in New England be investigated.

The executive board of the Central Labor Union was instructed to obtain the necessary legal assistance in drawing up a bill which after being presented and O. K.'d at the State labor convention in August at Worcester will be pushed through the Legislature as a regular labor measure.

DOORWAY "EGGED."

This decision was reached following Miss O'Connor's decision to fight out the strike for the original demands.

At Lynn police were called in again today to take action against striking operators after John Cleary of No. 86 Hollingsworth place charged his daughter Kathryn had been annoyed for the second time within two weeks.

She is a "loyal" operator. Once before she was "molested." Today, Cleary said, he found his front door treckled with splashes of aged eggs, decrepit fruit and sundry untidy vegetation.

He charges strikers or their sympathetic friends bombarded his "Sunday" entrance during the night.

WELLESLEY LEGION HEAD MISSING, LEAVES FAMILY

A new commander will be elected tonight at a special meeting of Wellesley Post, No. 72, American Legion, to succeed Commander William F. Sullivan, who is reported to have been missing for a month.

Mystery surrounds his disappearance. He is twenty-five years old and was born in Wellesley.

With his wife and three children he occupied the caretaker's home on the legion's Washington street property at Wellesley. Mrs. Sullivan and the children are understood to be at the home of her mother in Attleboro. She left the legion home on May 15.

CHILD BURNED TO DEATH; PLAYMATE QUESTIONED

Police are investigating the death of seven-year-old Rose Rosenburg, No. 44 Bloomingdale street, Chelsea, which occurred at Chelsea Memorial Hospital from burns received from matches while at play. The fatal burning was at the home of a seven-year-old playmate, Bessie Brown, No. 58 Bloomingdale street.

Little Rose told the nurses and her father that Bessie, with whom she was playing in the latter's yard, lighted a match and threw it at her, her dress catching fire.

Questioned, little Bessie gave a different version, claiming that Rose took a match from her, Bessie's, pocket and lighted a scrap of paper with it.

BOSTON DELUGED BY RAIN UNDER NOONDAY TWILIGHT

The capricious weather man played a Bolasco surprise on Boston at noon today.

Without any warning high noon faded into dim twilight, and lights flashed from all the office buildings in midtown. Autoists put on their lights and in the outlying districts poultry called it a day.

With the night effect at noon came a downing rain that had a tenacious aspect to it.

In the suburbs, North of Boston, there was a heavy electrical storm.

LOSES WAITER'S LIFE SAVINGS, $60,000; BROKER ENDS LIFE

New York, July 16.—Magistrate Oberwager today made the final entry, "deceased" on the record of an investigation of the charge that Smith Weigand, broker, had been responsible for the loss by "Little Joe" Jacobs, waiter, of his life savings of $60,000. Weigand committed suicide at Milford, Ct., yesterday on the eve of resumption of the inquiry.

"Little Joe" several weeks ago asked summonses for Weigand and Langley & Co., brokers. He told the court that by working seventeen hours a day, seven days a week for eighteen years, he had amassed $60,000.

Weigand, one of his most liberal patrons, he said, had gained his confidence and induced him to turn over the savings for investment in stocks.

Recently "Little Joe" decided to retire and asked Weigand for his money. Weigand, he said, told him it had been lost in the market. Philip Wittenberg, Weigand's lawyer, declared today Weigand had been blameless in the transaction.

Rain caused a postponement of today's twin bill at the Wigwam between the Braves and Reds. A double-header will be staged tomorrow at 1:30.

DIVES TO DEATH IN LYNN HOSPITAL

John Stavinopoulos, thirty-five years old, a Peabody leather worker, dove to his death today from a second story window in Lynn Hospital. He was suffering from delirium due to pneumonia. His head struck against the stone pavement. His neck was broken.

NEARLY A MILLION FORDS TO BE BUILT IN SIX MONTHS

New York, July 16.—The Ford Motor Co. will build more cars in the second half of 1923 than in the first half, it was reported today. The contemplated output in the domestic plants alone for this year is 1,500,000 cars and trucks. In the first six months the company produced 831,473 cars and trucks in the domestic plants, so that the schedule calls for an output of 968,527 vehicles in the last 6 months of 1923.

2 MALDEN HOMES ARE BROKEN UP

Wives Depart, and One Husband Accuses Other of Love Piracy

Two young wives have left their husbands and Malden.

A house is for sale. Another for rent.

On the threshold of the divorce court are the couples who occupied the houses and who up to a week ago were believed to be ideally wed.

They are Dr. and Mrs. Melvin F. Francis and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph D. Somerville.

Dr. and Mrs. Francis lived at No. 21 Greenleaf street.

The Somervilles lived at No. 192 Maple street.

TO LET AND FOR SALE.

The Francis house at "to let," and the other house is for sale.

Dr. Francis is a dentist. His offices are at No. 74 Pleasant street.

Somerville is a provision man—he sells bananas—at No. 17 Blackstone street, Boston.

Somehow or other the banana man and the dentist's pretty blond motor found something in common. They motored and played, while the doctor ground teeth. Neighbors gossiped. But, as in all such cases, the gossip reached the parties most interested last.

Came a day when Dr. Francis, after a week-end camping trip, happened on Malden's postmaster, William Murray.

"So you've moved," said the postmaster.

"Not I," said the doctor.

TWO MALDEN HOMES BROKEN UP BY COUPLE'S LOVE TANGLE

HUSBANDS MOVE FOR DIVORCE

One Accuses Other, and Both Find Their Wives Have Left Them

"Better go home and see," was the reply.

The dentist did so. Figuratively speaking he had not moved, but his pretty young wife had. In fact she had removed all their furnishings and gone to live at the Summer home of her parents in Cousens Island, Me.

The same day—it was Wednesday last—the banana man arrived at his palatial Maple street home and found his wife had vanished and with her the furniture. Mrs. Somerville stopped a day or so with her neighbors, the Pechams, then went to her parents in Philadelphia.

TWO DIVORCE ACTIONS.

Now the ground is being cleared for divorce actions. Lawyers have been summoned. Dr. Francis, stopping with his mother, Mrs. Ida Francis, at No. 44 Spring street, said he had engaged Attorney Frank Drew and that his wife will be represented by Attorney George Stanley Harvey.

"It's a terrible mess," said the doctor. "I never suspected Somerville. Sure I knew him; knew him ten years. But I was entirely ignorant of anything having been carried on between him and my wife."

"It is understood you found your house empty," said a reporter.

"It was," said the doctor, "painfully so."

Somerville, who is stopping with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew C. Somerville of No. 12 Hawthorne street, has brought divorce action against his wife on the grounds of desertion.

Marathon Golf Now! Two Seek to Break 257 Hole Record

Washington, July 16.—William McGuire and Eddie Tipton, two of the best of the local golf talent, teed off at daybreak over the East Potomac Park public links today in an effort to set up a new record for consecutive holes played.

A record of 257 holes in 16½ hours was established by Rudolph Supan at Cleveland last week, but the local marathoners are playing over a longer course and hope to hang up a record for the regulation course of 3,000 yards or more.

LARKIN DIRECTS IRISH DOCK STRIKE

Dublin, July 16.—A strike on the docks of Irish Free State ports was begun today. James Larkin, the Irish labor leader, recently deported from the United States, apparently is directing the operations of the striking element.

"SHEIK" OFFERS KISSES BY MILLION

Patterson agreed to give him up to her.

One of his letters to a Boston girl reads:

"Dearest—In the long, long years to come I will always love you true, hug and kiss you every day and hold you ever minute—and kiss you all the time—and if you ever scolded me I'd hold you so tight each night—I'll love you more and more, and be so awfully good to you, you cannot say a single word—but laugh and hold me tight—you see there's nothing left for you to do—but love me all the time, and I will do the same for you, through all the years to come.

"So if you do not think that you will always love me true—just up and tell me here and now—but that could never be—for of all the girls I've ever met to me you are the best—but if I met you years ago, we'd have a family now—last night I dreamt of you sweetheart—and wanted you so much—but tonight, oh dear, I will love you from your head to the toes of your feet—and if you dare to try and stop me—but I'm positive sure you won't—I'll hug and kiss and kiss you until you go to sleep—and if you wake in the night be sure you come over close for I will be waiting to love you—and kiss you all over again. Pat."

MILLIONS OF KISSES.

Another:

"Dearest. It is most midnight and I am sitting here alone at the office thinking of you and wondering what my dear little girl is doing tonight.

"I am the most lonesome boy in the world—because dear, without you, life would be long and dreary.

"Sometimes I feel that you wonder if I am true to you, and when some of my enemies and supposed to be friend tell you things about me—that annoy you—please do not believe them, for I truly love you better than you realize.

"If I had my way, I would leave everything behind and take you away where I would have you all to myself and I feel very sure I would make you the happiest girl in the world.

"Please do not grow tired waiting for my love is all yours and is truer than steel and deeper than the ocean—you are my very all—and some day you will know that I have given you everything that is good and pure.

"Tomorrow night is a long way off, but I am looking forward to taking you out to dinner, for I must see you, no matter what the cost may mean.

"Please love me all the time, for I need your love so much.

"Oceans of love and millions of kisses—ever and always yours.

Pat."

NEEDED MORE THAN EVER.

"Dear little girl: The day is passed and gone and although I have been extremely busy, I have thought of you a million times. How I wish conditions would straighten out, so that we could be together all the time. I need you now more than I ever did and I will not be satisfied until I have you all to my very self. To love and please and perhaps spoil you—

"Please never doubt me, for I promise before all the Gods that I will always love you and will try and be the best boy in the whole wide world to you—for you are my all in all.

"Only child, I am no hand at writing letters of this nature, and if they seem old fashioned or out of date, please remember that the writer has had little or no experience.

"If I feel better the first of the week, I will try and straighten matters out so that we may be together. Just think of all the good times we are going to have. I will hold you oh so tight and then you can never leave me.

"Dear—Always remember I love you more than ever. You are my only child and always will be.

"Ever yours only

"PAT."

LOVE ON A FARM.

"Dearest Child—Sometimes I feel that you love me dearly, and then again I am afraid—but after reading your little note I am sure you do.

"Do you know that there is something about you that I cannot or would not resist—your personality.

"Tonight I just wish that every and all our troubles were over, and I could take you home to the farm—or anywhere, and hold you in my arms and fall asleep. Just think what it would mean to both of us.

"I do fel sure that some day our dreams will come true, and then, oh honey, I will love you forever.

"It's is very nice of you to stay at home every night and wait for me, when I am so mean to you—but please remember I love you better than all the world—even though I am away from you most of the time.

"Please do not worry or fret about conditions for we have the best part of our lives to live and we can make the best of everything we do.

"I am awfully glad you did not go away, for I need you now more than I ever did in my life.

"I will try and make you happy when I can call you my very own.

"Until then please love me all the time.

"Heaps of love and millions of kisses.

"Ever and always your.

PAT."

Carnarvon's Daughter

(c) Bertram Park for International.

LADY EVELYN HERBERT

MET AT TOMB OF KING TUT; WILL WED

London, July 16.—Death was not the only lurking which stalked in the wake of those who broke the silence of the tomb of Pharaoh Tut-Ankh-Amen in the Valley of Kings at Luxor, Egypt.

It was Lord Carnarvon, head of the excavating party, who found tragedy in the quest for the treasures of the tomb. When he died soon after the excavations were brought to a successful conclusion.

His daughter, Lady Evelyn Herbert, the first woman to enter the tomb of the Egyptian Pharaoh, is soon to be married to B. C. Hoare-Cramp, son of Sir Herbert Beauchamp, Liberal member of Parliament from 1906. It was during the excavations at the tomb that the romance developed.

Lord Carnarvon died, scientific men say, of the bite of a poisonous fly during the work of disinterring the remains of Tutankhamen. But the superstitious said it was the vengeance of the dead king.

Lord Carnarvon's grandchildren, playing the man who ventured into his last resting place, relent by bringing romance to that man's daughter?

BEGIN NATION-WIDE SEARCH FOR 6 ESCAPED CONVICTS

Philadelphia, July 16.—Posters offering a reward of $200 each for the capture, dead or alive, of the six convicts who escaped from the Eastern State Penitentiary, are being prepared. They will be sent throughout the country.

No trace of the convicts has been received since they left Thomas J. McAllister, Jr., in whose motor car they made their flight from this city, bound, gagged and tied to a tree in a woods near Elkton, Md., on Saturday.

A large force of detectives has been sent from this city to lower Delaware and Maryland to aid in the search. They had orders to take them dead or alive.

LEGION DEMANDS REMOVAL OF OKLAHOMA APPOINTEE

Oklahoma City, July 16.—The executive committee of the American Legion, Department of Oklahoma, voted to make formal demand upon Governor Walton for the removal of George Wilson from the presidency of Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College.

The Legion charged he was "unfit to hold a position of public trust," after investigating a statement he was alleged to have made more than a year ago, in which he was quoted as having said: "I never see an American Legion button, but I want to shoot a hole through it."

Wilson denied the statement.

ABANDONED BABY IN HOTEL WINS HEARTS OF GUESTS

New York, July 16.—The winsome smile of a few weeks old baby has won the hearts of guests after it had been abandoned at the Hotel Marlborough. The man and woman who left the infant registered as "Mr. and Mrs. H. Williams, Baltimore."

Guests and the women of the hotel staff cared for the baby for two days under the direction of the house physician. The baby has been named Mary Marlborough. When the police were notified they ordered it sent to Bellevue Hospital, where it is being cared for.

The child was brought to the hotel by the man and woman last week. In less than twenty-four hours teh couple had disappeared with the auto in which they had come. A bag left behind contained baby's clothing.

BRITISH SINGAPORE PLANS KEPT SECRET AT WASHINGTON

London, July 16 (AP).—The proposed extra facilities at the British naval base in Singapore were not made known to the other nations represented at the Washington armament conference and there was no reason why they should have been, questioners were told in the House of Commons today by Stanley Hon. L. S. Amery, First Lord of the Admiralty.

It was clearly understood by the 1921 delegates at Washington, he said, that Great Britain was retaining full freedom of action as regards Singapore, which had always been a naval and military station. There was no discussion at Washington of the particular arrangements contemplated by Great Britain or any other powe, at naval bases or stations outside the zone explicitly defined in the agreement. The proposals for the base were first approved in June, 1921.

9 HURT IN SUBWAY CRASH, REAR-END COLLISION IN N. Y.

New York, July 16.—Nine persons were injured, none believed fatally, when two subway trains of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, crashed today in a rear-end collision at Two Hundred and Seventh street and Jerome avenue.

Six of the injured were rushed to Fordham Hospital. The others were given emergency treatment and taken to their homes. Many other passengers suffered minor bruises.

Among the injured were: Joseph Higgins, motorman, possible fracture of skull; Philip Austin, compound fracture of right arm, lacerated lips, and Benjamin Smithley, laceration of nose.

"CHINESE CROMWELL" SHOWN IN MOVIES

That China is rapidly awakening to the ways of the West and coming under occidental influences is made evident by exceptional motion pictures contained in International News Reel showing at the leading theatres. In this issue of International are shown scenes of General Feng Fu Hsiang, known as the "chinese Cromwell," and his army of converts.

A daredevil thrill picture made atop the tallest church steeple in the world, showing steeplejacks performing in their lofty positions, are shown in this release. An International Newsreel camera man climbed about with the steeplejack and the pictures he secured will make the fainthearted turn away their eyes from the screen. The building, which is located in Chicago, is ten feet higher than the Washington monument.

VETERANS' AID PROGRAM TO BE PRESSED

Washington, July 16.—A legislative program calling for adjusted compensation for world war veterans and affecting their rehabilitation, hospital care and insurance will be pressed on Congress in December by the disabled American veterans of the world war.

The proposals provide a rating of total permanent disability for veterans given hospital care for twelve consecutive months, and that all veterans so rated and those being treated at home shall receive the same family allowance as veterans' bureau trainees. Rating of fifty per cent. permanent disability will be asked for men with arrested or quiescent tuberculosis.

Amendment of the civil service laws will be proposed to place disabled veterans who attain a passing grade at the head of the eligible list.

The program would make women veterans who are in need, eligible to enter government veteran homes. Hospital treatment for all veterans regardless of the origin of their disability is urged, together with removal of the time limit for compensation. The privilege of reinstating war risk insurance is sought for veterans disabled in the service as well as those not disabled.

HYDROPLANES READY FOR HUB MANOEUVRES

New York, July 16 (AP).—Seventeen naval flying boats resting in the Hudson will take off tomorrow to participate in manoeuvres between Newport, R. I., and Boston. The seaplanes will fly around the Battery and head up Long Island Sound. They will be followed by the Wright, flagship of Captain W. H. Gilvard, commanding the Atlantic fleet's air force.

POINCARE SCORED BY BRITONS

Bitter Attack by Lloyd George Paper; Paris Issues Conciliatory Statement

Paris, July 16 (I.N.S.). — A statement designed to conciliate Great Britain was issued at the Foreign Office today. M. Poincare's speech at Senlis, it was stated, had been written before Premier Baldwin made his statement on reparations in Commons at London, and therefore could not be considered a reply to the British Premier.

London, July 16. (I.N.S.)—The end of the Anglo-French entente "has been brought appreciably nearer by Poincare's Sunday speech, at Senlis, British newspapers are almost unanimous in denouncing his declarations.

"Premier Poincare tells us in advance he intends to reject the British reparations reply to Germany and that France intends to hold the Ruhr," said the Chronicle, personal organ of former Premier David Lloyd George.

"France is prosperous but refuses to pay her debts. Meanwhile M. Poincare tells us that France is suffering, but she is unmindful of the sufferings of Italy and Belgium, as well as ourselves who bore the burden of the great war.

"France continues to tear up the treaty of Versailles by her illegal invasion of the Ruhr. She is destroying our prospects of recovering indemnities as well as her own. She is smashing up the trade of Europe, punishing our industries and keeping tens of thousands of workers idle. How can we preserve the Anglo-French entente under such circumstances?"

That Premier Baldwin is having trouble within the cabinet was intimated by the Tory organ, the Morning Post, which denounced pressure upon France as "German propaganda."

Premier Baldwin will complete the draft of the reply to the German reparations note and then submit it to France, giving Premier Poincare a chance to reject it. England then would be in a position to pursue her own independent course.

Germans Must Pay in Full, Says Poincare

Senlis, France, July 16 (AP).—In this little town, nearest point the Germans reached on their march to Paris, Premier Poincare gave what is considered his preliminary answer to Great Britain's attitude on reparations which was embodied last week in both house of Parliament. His real answer, of course, will be in reply to the note that Great Britain will propose as a joint allied reply to Germany.

France, asserted M. Poincare, stands unalterably for the complete execution of the treaty of Versailles and the full payment by Germany of the debt of 132 billion gold marks, the sum fixed at the London conference. France, he added, in consequence, opposes the appointment of an international finance commission to reconsider Germany's debt and suppliant the reparations commission.

German Americans Are Cold To Fatherland

Berlin, July 16.—"Germany should give up the illusion that any help is coming for Germany from America," declared Ex-Premier Lerchenfeld of Bavaria in a speech before newspaper publishers at Munich.

Lerchenfeld has returned after an extended tour of the United States.

Among the eleven or twelve million German-Americans in the United States, Lerchenfeld declared, there is lacking that racial consciousness and common faith that unites so strongly the Irish in America.

MILLS REOPENED AT MANCHESTER, N. H.

Manchester, N. H., July 16—After a shut down of two weeks, the Amoskeag Corporation resumes operations this morning, with the exception of mills 1 and 2. These sections are incapacitated because of low water in the river.

WED LOU IF HE WAS A 'SHEIK'

Beth Tate, London Comedienne, Adds Her Denial to the Long List

New York, July 16.—It seems that Lou Tellegen isn't a Don Juan or a Lochinvar at all.

It seems so to Beth Tate, favorite London comedienne, who has fallen in the wake of Peggy Hopkins Joyce et al, in denying reports from London that she was engaged to marry the matinee idol.

If such denials were to be recorded by bureaus of vital statistics, its number would resemble an automobile license plate.

Peke just will try to marry off Lou since his matrimonial bark with Geraldine Farrar was buffeted upon the shoals by stories of requested love of the former for numerous and sundry folks of wildness bent.

Beth might have been a willing victim, she admitted coyly tender luminous eyes and raven black tresses coiffed similar to Farrar's, but for two reasons:

1—Lou has a Green-Roman nose which she dislikes because it reminds her of a wrestling match, during which she once went to sleep.

2—Lou isn't a sheik, but rather a candidate for any intelligensia.

Beth, in admitting that she had a leaning toward men who had pug noses, and who treated her rough, and told her nothing, added:

"I cannot imagine where the story originated—out of the blue sky, of course—but from whom I cannot imagine.

"Lou is just as highbrow about it as I am. It is a pity that a man who is so studious and who loves so simply as he should be maligned. He has simple tastes, is very brainy and is most interesting to talk with. "I appreciated Mr. Tellegen's friendship and I think he appreciates mine and it is only because I have been seen about with Lou that the rumor we were to wed circulated."

Beth said she expected to live permanently in New York, though not as Mrs. Lou Tellegen.

WINS HER DIVORCE FOLLOWING A RAID

MRS. ELEANOR LIVINGSTON FRENCH

New York and Newport society leader who has won freedom from husband she accused of sharing "love nest" with unknown woman.

DIVORCE IS GIVEN MRS. FRENCH

Member of Famous Newport Family Names "Unknown Woman" in Suit

New York, July 16.—Mrs. Eleanor Livingston French, No. 911 Park avenue, New York, and Newport society woman, has been awarded a divorce from Francis Ormond French, scion of a distinguished family.

The action was begun last January, the society world being startled when an unnamed woman was mentioned by Mrs. French.

Discovery of her husband's alleged infidelity was made during a raid on a New York apartment house, said to have been maintained and occupied by French and the "unnamed woman."

Before her marriage, in 1914, Mrs. French was Miss Eleanor Livingston Burrill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Livingston Burrill. French is a son of Amos Tuck French. He was graduated from Harvard in 1912. He is a nephew of the former Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, married to Lieutenant Paul Fitzsimmons, U. S. N., in 1919. His sister, Julia French, electrified the society world a few years ago when she eloped with "Handsome Jack" Geraghty, a Newport chauffeur.

French's parents were divorced soon before his marriage. His aunt, in 1908, obtained a divorce from Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, who later lost his life in the Lusitania disaster.

The former Miss Pauline French, in 1908, became the wife of Samuel Wagstaff, New York lawyer. She divorced him several years later, and became the wife of Donald McCrae.

Numerous other mesalliances and divorces, almost too numerous to recount, are part of the history of Mr. French's immediate family.

RADICAL LEADERS URGE BROCKTON SHOE STRIKERS TO STAND FIRM

At upper left (insert) is Joseph Lacouture, president of the union. At upper right (insert) Dennis McCarthy, secretary of the union. At center (insert) Attorney John J. SHOE STRIKERS ADVISED NOT TO PICKET

Brockton, July 16.—Disregarding warnings from city authorities against importing radical speakers, the shoe strike leaders again gave their followers a chance to listen to Ben Legere, radical labor organizer of Lawrence.

Legere bitterly attacked the local authorities for their stand against peaceful picketing and urged a return to the picket lines.

Upwards of 2,000 strikers thronged Johnson National Park in Monatello. Police were not on hand. The strikers gathered to get their leaders' advice as to a resumption of picketing.

PICKETING URGED.

Attorney John J. Geegan, counsel for the strikers, told the meeting that in all probability the higher court would declare picketing illegal and in any event the court fight would be a long and expensive one. He predicted prison sentences for many strikers when the jury trials are held, but urged the strikers to go back to picketing if they still felt inclined to do so.

WILL REMAIN OUT.

After listening to their local leaders, Joseph Lacouture, president, and Dennis McCarthy, secretary, the strikers seemed inclined to refrain from picketing, but a unanimous "No" was their answer to a question whether they would go back to work.

Miss Alice Wisebing and a score of other girls sold enough carnations at the picnic to swell considerably the benefit fund from which the striking shoe workers get their livelihood during the long strike.

"Love Match" Says Lionel Barrymore Who Wed Actress

Rome, July 16—Lionel Barrymore and Irene Fenwick, stage stars, who were wed here Saturday, married for love.

"Please don't refer to this as a 'screen wedding'" Barrymore pleaded today. "This is a love match."

They have decided to spend their honeymoon in Rome.

PHILIPPINE CABINET QUITS IN WOOD ROW

Manila, July 16. (I.N.S.)—The Philippine Cabinet today accepted the resignation of a quartet between Secretary of the Interior Laurel and Governor General Wood. Laurel resigned Saturday because Governor Wood had requested him to transfer certain officers, head of the Philippine constabulary, against gambling. Conley had been prosecuted by Laurel on what was alleged to have been a "frame up" of gambling interests against the governor.

WARE MILLS DOWN TO 4-DAY SCHEDULE

Ware, July 16—Employes in the cloth department of the Otis Company's mills here have been notified that, beginning immediately, that department will go on a schedule of four days a week. The order affects approximately 1,600 hands. The hosiery and underwear departments will continue on a full time schedule, the office said.

HAMILTON FISH TO FIGHT WORLD COURT

Lausanne, July 16.—Representative Hamilton Fish, Jr., engaged in a survey of the European political situation, announced to the American newspaper men here that he would return home to oppose the entrance of the United States into the League of Nations and the World Court.

Fish declared that the League of Nations was dominated by England and a desire for peaceful relations among the European nations." He asserted the World Court would have no power to enforce peace. He is now enroute to Moscow. He has visited The Hague and Geneva and consulted with political and economic leaders.

HARDING TAKES TO AUTO AS RAILS END

Fairbanks, Alaska, July 16 (AP)—Having reached the Northern end of rail transportation, President Harding proposed today to go into the interior of Alaska by automobile.

About the time people in the East are having dinner tonight, the President and Mrs. Harding and a portion of their party will start from here on an automobile trip of ninety miles over Richardson Trail to McCarty on the Tanana River. There they will go aboard a river steamer for Tanana, where they will return over government railroad to Seward.

The President visited the Alaska Agricultural College and School of Mines here, the farthest north college in the world, which graduated its first student last June. Before he arrived he drove the golden spike signifying completion of the government railroad from Seward to Fairbank. He paid high tribute to Colonel Moore and other builders.

The Gridiron Club, the national capital's organization of correspondents, held its farthest north meeting here. Eight members of the organization gathered with Scott C. Bone, Former Washington correspondent and now Governor of Alaska.

GIRL DRINKS IODINE; SAVED BY HER CHUM

Margaret O'Connor Anna Breen

Margaret O'Connor of No. 25 Worcester Square, is in the City Hospital suffering from iodine she swallowed for medicine.

"It was a mistake," she said today. Her chum, Anna Breen, found her and called a doctor who in turn summoned an ambulance.

At the hospital physicians expect Miss O'Connor will be recovered in a few days.

BOOTLEGS BEAT DRY AGENT IN PISTOL DUEL

London, Vt., July 16—Anderson Clark, Federal prohibition agent, was taken prisoner by a band of Canadian rum runners, beaten into insensibility and thrown from a speeding automobile here, after a desperate revolver duel.

Wild shots from both parties shattered windows and smashed objects in homes along the highway.

With two other dry agents Clark came here from Newport to hold up a truck they had been informed would attempt to bring liquor across the border. No truck was seen.

Four men in a large touring car bearing a Canadian license plate, however, attracted the attention of the dry agents. The motorists were not able to produce the proper passports.

Clark entered a house to check up on the men by telephone, while the other two agents guarded the automobile. The telephone call was never finished. At the sound of a fusillade of revolver shots, Clark ran out of the house to see the car start down the road, while men in the rear seat held the dry agents at bay with revolvers.

Disregarding the shooting, Clark ran after the automobile, then gaining headway, in time to step onto the running board. Before he could bring his gun into play, he was grabbed and clubbed into insensibility with a heavy revolver butt.

ARLINGTON WOMAN INJURED IN CRASH

Beverly, July 16—Mrs. James Underwood, 75 years old, of No. 20 Swan Place, Arlington, was seriously injured when her husband's automobile was crowded against a tree on Hale street, by a car driven by Augustus G. Hall, of No. 372 Washington street, Gloucester. Mrs. Underwood is at Beverly Hospital.

attempt to quash a second indictment charging them with perjury in connection with Miss Fontaine's $1,000,000 breach of promise suit against Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney. It was learned today.

Supreme Court Justice Seeger has granted a motion of Edward J. Colling, attorney for Miss Fontaine and her mother, which will permit him to inspect the minutes of the Grand Jury which returned the second indictment.

METHUEN DIVIDED OVER ANNEXATION

Methuen, July 16.—Methuen, incorporated as a town in 1726, is split in sentiment on the resolution adopted by the council in Lawrence, a measure, upstart of a town, passing the act for annexation of Methuen to Lawrence. Lawrence wants Methuen's open spaces for expansion, and her river fronts because of the $25,000,000 Merrimac River Improvement project now pending. Methuen charges, Lawrence points out of $5 reduction in tax rates.

2 AMERICANS KILLED BY BUS IN ENGLAND

Berwick, England, July 16—Five-year-old Margaret Marshall, daughter of Mrs. Robert Marshall of Buffalo, N. Y., was killed by a big sightseeing motor car and her aunt died from injuries she received in trying to save the child.

U. S. GIRL'S BATHING SUIT SKIRT INDECENT, SAY FRENCH

BARRED OFF BEACH AT DEAUVILLE

Censors Call Costume "Vulgar" in Land of One-Piece Garments

By C. F. BERTELLI.

Deauville, July 16.—Because she wore stockings and a heavy skirt with a bathing dress made to conform to regulations at Atlantic City and other American beaches Miss Esther Sterne of Philadelphia was politely requested by the authorities here to keep off the beach.

Deauville's liberal-minded censors were horrified at Esther's costume.

"It is vulgar, worse than indecent," was the verdict of the censors, who pointed out that when her wet skirts clung to her girlish figure it was positively shocking.

ONE PIECE SUIT O. K.

The only kind of bathing suit recognized here as proper is a one-piece or half-piece garment which the French say is entirely proper because it conforms to esthetic art.

The heat wave has sent even the most hardened gamblers to the beach, many taking a midnight dip and then playing baccarat the rest of the night in bathing suits.

American tourists who wandered around were dazzled alike by the record-breaking fluxes of fashions and the reckless gambling of their more seasoned compatriots.

A. K. Macomber was the biggest loser, dropping two hundred thousand francs at his first sitting. Ambassador Alex Moore laughingly refrained from gambling for the first time in Deauville's memory. Irene Castle won two dollars after playing all night long.

SIX OUNCE GOWNS

Expensive, heavy dresses, though fashionable, went to the board as the heat steadily increased and not even the smallest sea breeze was wafted in. At the height of the afternoon the average gown could appropriately be substituted with a pocket handkerchief.

Madeline Delancey, well known beauty, said the maximum weight of total clothing should not exceed six ounces and a half. The estimated total weight of jewels carried in the Casino far outweighed the clothes worn.

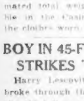
IRENE CASTLE

Dispatches from Deauville, France, tell of a three-cornered tussle for some magnificent jewels between Baroness D'Erlanger, formerly Mrs. F. C. Hewitt; Dorothy Romero, the latest ruling beauty, and Irene Castle, with the latter eventually acquiring them; two pearl and one diamond necklace and an enormous solitaire ring.

BARONESS D'ERLANGER

BOY IN 45-FOOT FALL, STRIKES TWO ROOFS



Harry Lesovitz

Harry Lesovitz, eight years old, broke through the piazza railing on the third floor of his home, No. 49 Green street, West End, and fell 45 feet, bounding off two tin roofs in his descent.

The boy, suffering from a severe wound and injuries to his back, is at the Massachusetts General Hospital, where his condition is reported as serious.

Harry was playing with several companions, it is reported on the piazza rail. The wood had rotted and gave way under the weight of his body.

When he fell he struck the tin roof over the second floor piazza. He rolled off that roof and fell to a roof over the first floor piazza. Again the boy rolled off that roof and landed in the yard. His mother carried him to the Relief Station.

TEXTILE DELEGATES CONDEMN 3 FIRMS

Manchester, N. H., July 16.—The New England textile conference heard met here and condemned the Ward Baking Company, which, the conference declared, had locked out its employes in declaring an open shop. Another resolution condemned the American Woolen Company, because, as alleged by the board, employes are working on a night shift sixty hours. A third resolution condemned the Amoskeag Manufacturing Company for its alleged company union.

"KISS AND TELL" DUKE CONFESSES

London, July 16.—The Duke of Manchester, it is signed actress in the Sunday Herald, tells of his most unique proposal.

Duke of Manchester

Henry Tabor, Denver mining millionaire, he says, came to him and asked: "Look, what if you take in coin to be my son-in-law?"

His daughter, Edie, according to the Herald Examiner of the New York divorce courts in America, saved his reason.

Will you take me? I'll make and double the offer."

Whether the mining magnate decided or not is unknown, but the Duke did not "fall," for he later married Miss Helena Zimmerman whose father objected and regarding whom the Duke wrote:

"I fear he did not forgive me for he was more careful not to mention me in his will."

8 ARRESTED IN SOUTH END GAME OF CHANCE

"Take a bull from the bunch," is the way eight South End boys describe the way nine cents jammed from a worn wall into their mitts and broke up a perfectly good game of dice. Patrolmen O'Neil, Eldridge and Colman collected all the cash in sight. Passing along Ryan street, South End, near the rear of the East Dedham street police station, the three policemen overheard a coming mule game.

The Moxie policemen scaled the wall and pitched into the center of the game. Eight were arrested.

GERMANY NEAR FAMINE AND REVOLT

Berlin, July 16 (Copyright, 1923, by I.N.S.).—Dr. Heinrich Brauns, German minister of labor, in the first interview he has given since he took office in the Cuno government, told the writer today industrial Germany has reached a critical point.

"The wage scale of the metal worker is the signal column of the German republic," said Dr. Brauns. "The question of internal peace or revolution depends almost entirely upon the wage scale.

"But the wage scale itself is dependent upon the status of the mark. If the mark continues its present headlong plunge then a red tide will sweep Europe.

"The next few weeks, perhaps days—must bring either a permanent and healthy readjustment of wages or chaos. There is no alternative.

"The physical capacity of our workers is growing less and less because of the food shortage. Ship after ship laden with food imports return to the ports of their origin with the promise to get more supplies because we have not the cash to pay the huge amounts in foreign currencies demanded for the imports.

"Great shipments of potatoes from Holland for the half-starved population of the Ruhr had to be turned back because we had not the money to pay for them. The health of the people is being undermined steadily. Mortality is growing at an alarming rate."

Dr. Brauns enjoys the confidence of an overwhelming majority of German workers. He has served as Labor Minister for three consecutive years. He is a former Catholic priest and a member of the Centrist (Clerical) party.

CLASH ON PARKING OF AUTOS AT NAHANT

Nahant, July 16.—The Metropolitan Park Commission notified the selectmen of Nahant that it will hold a hearing at its board room in Beacon street Thursday at 2 o'clock regarding the desire of the Nahant authorities to take over the roadway between Nahant and Lynn and make their own parking and traffic regulations. The district commission recently barred parking and residents complained.

WALTER WARD'S WIFE FOILS DETECTIVES

Atlantic City, N. J., July 16.—Efforts of detectives to serve Mrs. Walter S. Ward, her mother, and a French maid, with subpoenas to appear before the special Grand Jury investigating the slaying last March of Clarence Peters of Haverhill, Mass., were foiled when the trio were rushed past the officers into a motor elevator and thence to their rooms, where they locked themselves in.

Walter S. Ward and his brother Ralph, sons of the president of the Ward Baking Company, have been of Atlantic City with the women members of Walter's household, for several weeks. Detectives O'Connell and Gerry of White Plains, N. Y., arrived yesterday and attempted to serve the subpoenas.

The detectives declared Walter and Ralph blocked their path while the women fled into the suite. Locks, rooms, the detectives declared, and authority to break into the New York.

RAILWAY OFFICIAL APOPLEXY VICTIM

Danbury, Conn., July 16.—Frank M. Clark, forty-seven years old, superintendent of the New York division of the New Haven Railroad, died at his home here following a stroke of apoplexy. Starting as a station agent at Taunton, Mr. Clark rose to train master at Providence, superintendent of the Old Colony division, and finally superintendent of the New York division.

FRANK ARCHER SAYS:—

This article written by Miss A. Jacobson, a Radcliffe student.

It is afternoon. The thermometer says 98° in the shade. The sun is glaring—the earth is broiling—everyone is sizzling with heat. Near by on a table are punch and other supposedly cooling drinks. But nothing satisfies. Discontent, discomfort, dismal gloom pervades the once gay party. Then, enter Mr. Frank Archer! Why does the atmosphere cool at once? Why is everybody happy again? Why has pep, spirit, and gayety returned? Because Mr. Archer uttered the magic word—Moxie. Can anything equal that wonderful bitter-sweet flavor of Moxie? No. Nothing can equal Moxie. And that's just why we don't have to say anything but Moxie. The whole world knows it's the best.

KENNEBEC VALLEY DAMAGED IN STORM

Augusta, Me., July 16.—A series of heavy showers, accompanied by high wind and giant hailstones, caused considerable damage throughout the Kennebec valley. The home of Alfred J. Jacques on Jefferson street here was struck by lightning and partially wrecked.

A large barn of Albert Thulen in Farmingdale was struck and destroyed by fire.

DR. COLVIN, NOTED EDUCATOR, IS DEAD

New York, July 16.—Dr. Stephen Sheldon Colvin, aged fifty-four, professor of education at Teachers College, Columbia University, was found dead in bed, Professor Colvin, who was widely known as an authority on teaching, came to Columbia at the beginning of the last academic year from Brown University.

ARMED BANDIT ROBS CAMBRIDGE GARAGE

Shepherd's garage, Mt. Auburn and Sparks streets, Cambridge, was robbed of about $15 by one of three men who drove in the place in an automobile. Under the pretext of using the telephone, he entered the office, where he flashed a revolver in the face of Claude Shepherd, son of the proprietor, and emptied the cash drawer.

MAN REPORTED DEAD ONLY ON VACATION

Springfield, July 16.—Antonio Romeo of Chicago, believed killed in an accident in that city on July 14, announced that he is enjoying a two weeks' vacation in Springfield visiting relatives. Romeo's relatives here hastened to Chicago to identify the body in the morgue, found the dead man on his arrival and returned to find Romeo waiting to disprove the reports of his death.

PREUS BACKERS PRAY FOR LOW FARM VOTE

St. Paul, Minn., July 16.—Republicans who for forty years have banked on the farmer vote to carry the State are praying for something to keep the farmer-labor vote in the wheat fields.

That change in the point of distance sums up the situation in the Minnesota election as the voters go to the polls. Backers of Governor Preus are confident of carrying the cities and hope the farmers will stay at home.

Dollar wheat has become the first definite bogeyman of the Republicans. Through the central and northern State farmers have suffered reverses during the Harding administration and the farmer-labor managers believe they will direct harvest fields to vote for Johnson. If they do he stands better than an even chance to be elected.

The campaign closed with all three candidates claiming victory. Preus by a majority not stated; Johnson by 50,000, and Carley, Democrat, by 25,000. Senator Carley's assertion is not convincing to politicians, but Johnson's is treated with respect.

The result in Hennepin County and Minneapolis probably will decide the contest. Republicans hope to give Preus the lead of 16,000 which he had in 1922. That probably would elect him. Johnson admittedly will come into Minneapolis with a small majority despite the Preus vote in the southern counties.

WOMEN SAY THEY WERE INSULTED

Mrs. Margaret McCarriston and daughter, Jennie, will seek a warrant today for the arrest of Isaac Roman of No. 322 Summer street, Lynn, on a charge of assault. The women allege that Roman insulted them as they were returning from church in South Common street. Mrs. McCarriston told police she slapped him, then followed him to his home.

Millionaire Denies Reported Admiration for Beauty Contest Winner

By Universal Service

New York, July 16.—Eugene V. Brewster, millionaire magazine publisher, has given up the role of love pirate and intends to marry Miss Corliss Palmer, pretty Georgia girl, if he has to overturn the earth to do so.

Standing in the spacious entrance to his beautiful home, "Agapomeno," his New Jersey abode of love, Brewster said:

MOST WONDERFUL GIRL.

"I have settled upon one girl, the pride of my life. I intend to marry her if it takes ninety-nine years. She is the most wonderful girl that ever lived. She will become my wife if I have to go abroad to obtain a divorce."

"Then it is not true you have admired Miss Florino Findley De Hart, sixteen-year-old Virginia girl, who won your magazine's 'last beauty contest?' he was asked.

The big man in sport shirt and duck trousers straightened his muscular figure and replied:

INTENDS TO WED.

"No. Such a suggestion is unfair and untrue. Miss De Hart and her mother are in New York as guests of one of my publications. I met her but once. She is very beautiful and very talented, but I love but one girl, Corliss Palmer.

"It is my one ambition in life to marry her. I shall marry her if I have to overturn the earth."

"But your wife?"

"My wife has no right to stand between us. We are legally separated. She refuses me a divorce, but I intend to become legally free to wed Miss Palmer."

MOTHER WITH CORLISSS.

When asked if Miss Palmer's mother and sister had returned to Georgia because she continues to live with him, he replied:

"No. They paid a brief visit to their home recently. Come with me."

He led the way to the dining room. A pretty woman, apparently in her forties, with fine features and dark hair was lunching with two younger women.

"See for yourself. This is Miss Palmer. This is her sister, and this lady is her mother," he said as the three women nodded.

Mr. Brewster, by the way, is transferring his own fashionable estate into an eden. He laughed:

"That great hole in the ground is to be a sunken garden. I am planning other improvements. Corliss and I are happy here. We need but one thing more to make us really happy. You can guess what that is."

2 DYING FROM POISON LIQUOR

Two unidentified men are dying at the City Hospital from the effects of drinking poisonous "moonshine," the police report. The victims were taken to the hospital by the police. One, about fifty-five years old, was found at Olney and Bowdoin streets Dorchester, the other in the doorway of No. 132 Concord street, South End. Ten other men and women were treated at the hospital for alcoholism.

TAKES POISON IN WEST END ROOM

Philip Stephens, 23 years old, of No. 47 Hancock street, West End, was taken to the Haymarket Relief Hospital from his room at that address, suffering from corrosive sublimate which, the police say, was self-administered. He will recover. The reason for the attempt at suicide is unknown.

WEEKS TO VISIT CAMP DEVENS TODAY

Camp Devens, July 16.—Secretary of War John W. Weeks is to honor this cantonment with a visit today, at which time he will be tendered a review by the 26th Division, N. D., in command of Major-General Edward L. Logan.

Secretary Weeks will make a tour of inspection of the entire encampment and the National Guard units in particular.

Following the review, in the afternoon another gas attack will be staged by the 101st Infantry. It will be under the supervision of Major Paul J. Moulton.

ANOTHER SHAM BATTLE.

A spectacular sham battle between three infantry regiments is also scheduled to take place tomorrow. In the evening a reception will be tendered by the officers of the 26th Division to the officers of First Corps Area at the Hostess House. Mayor Curley will be present.

Senator Lodge, accompanied by many prominent officials, will visit the camp on Thursday. He will be honored with a divisional review.

The mysterious stranger, clad in civilian clothes, who shot at Privates Kirkman and Lamonlaige, sentries of the 26th division, when they challenged him at midnight, is still uncaptured. The two sentries were quizzed by Army Intelligence officers to obtain a description of the man.

SWEETHEARTS' DAY.

Sunday was "Sweethearts' Day" at the army cantonment. More than 10,000 visitors, most of them young girls whose sweethearts are now in uniform, added a touch of color to the scene of martial activity, the bright dresses of the young women standing in sharp contrast to the khaki uniform of the soldiers.

Brigadier-General Alfred E. Foote, Commissioner of Public Safety, with Maj.-General Edward L. Logan, reviewed the troops in the afternoon. A slight rainfall occasioned some discomfort to the spectators, but to the marchers it was a boon for it cleared away the choking dust clouds.

VISITORS ENTERTAINED.

Following the review, the troops took their friends on a tour of inspection about the camp. No one lacked a friend. Those whose friends were far away were furnished one by some accommodating buddy who lived nearer home.

The artillery range drew the greater proportion of visitors. There they marvelled at the destructive power of shells of the 75 mm. of the 101st Artillery, directed in target practice last week.

Craters 20 to 40 feet in diameter were torn in the ground. Trees were ripped to pieces and mounds were levelled by the terrific explosive effect of the shells.

BOSTON MAN KILLED BY AUTO IN MAINE

Kennebunk, Me., July 16.—Charles Frank Day, 72 years old, of Boston, for years connected with the city of Boston law department, was instantly killed here when struck and thrown upon the pavement by the mudguard of an automobile driven by George W. Abbott of Waterboro. His skull was fractured.

ITALY GOES WILD AS MUSSOLINI BILL WINS

Rome, July 16 (A.P.).—Amid scenes rarely enacted Premier Mussolini won a vote of confidence from the Chamber of Deputies with margin of 162 votes on his electoral reform bill.

Before the vote was taken Mussolini harangued the deputies in his accustomed style. His fiery address was punctuated with outbursts of applause both from the benches and the galleries that swept his auditors into songs and those inside into a riot and those who waited outside into wild demonstrations.

The vote was 393 to 140, seven not voting, an enormous majority considering the strenuous attempts against the reform made by the Socialists and Communists, and some others, who thought this a good opportunity to break the Premier's power.

Particularly surprising was the vote of some of the Catholics in favor of Mussolini in which they disregarded the opposition attitude of their former leader, Don Luigi Sturzo, who recently resigned as Secretary-General of the Catholic Party. The Catholics tempered their rebellion by abstaining from voting on various articles in the bill and by refraining from the debate.

Debate on the measure began last Wednesday. It changes the system under which the present chamber is chosen, abolishing the plan of proportional representation and giving the party receiving the most votes two-thirds, or 365, of the seats in the Chamber. While the proportional system would end as now used, it would still apply to the minority parties. The effect is to make one constituency instead of fifty-five out of the entire country.

$25,000 FLAMES MENACE GAS PLANT

Amesbury, July 16.—Fire, believed to have started from fuel overflowing storage tanks and being ignited by boiler fires, caused $25,000 damage at the Amesbury & Salisbury Gas Company here. Combatting the fire was perilous because of the possibility of explosion of the big gas tanks. The gas supply of cottagers will be limited until repairs are made.

LOVE FOR U. S. GIRL CAUSE OF SUICIDE

Naples, July 16.—Marie Bartori, twenty-five years old, a member of a rich noble family, committed suicide by taking poison. It is believed Sartori committed suicide because of unrequited love for an American girl who recently left Rome.

Plunges 20 Feet

HOW CHILD FELL.

When pretty Frances Subricka 7-year-old daughter of Anthony Subricka, of No. 81 Salem street, North End, saw her father enter the yard, she leaned over the railing of the second-story piazza to wave him a kiss, and lost her balance. She plunged to the roof of a small porch, from which she rolled and dropped to the ground. She was rushed to the Haymarket Relief Hospital. She will recover.

RADIO STORES LOOTED; SEEK POLICE HELP

Radio supply stores have appealed to the police to protect their property from a band of radio thieves who prowl about the stores at night waiting for an opportunity to cut through the plate glass windows and loot the electrical supplies displayed there.

The latest stores which have been singled out by the band are Chandler & Farquhar, of No. 259 Devonshire street, and Edwin C. Lewis, Inc., of No. 121 Federal street. Both are electrical supplies stores.

The Chandler & Farquhar Company reported the loss of a considerable amount of radio supplies which the thieves obtained by cutting through the heavy plate glass window and rifling the shelves of everything within reach. The value of the loss has not yet been ascertained.

The thieves were evidently frightened away from the Lewis store, for they abandoned the job after cutting half way through the glass. There was no loss.

AUTO STRIKES WOMEN ON WAY TO CHURCH

Mrs. Marion Sprout, thirty-six years old, of No. 74 Western avenue, Brighton, and Miss Mary O'Neil, eighty-five years old, of No. 24 Raymond street, Brighton, while returning from church were injured when they were struck and knocked down by an automobile operated by James H. D. Mortisey of No. 153 Cambridge street, Allston.

WOMAN SAYS PAIR BEAT HER IN STREET

Mrs. Lillian Mantiello, twenty-six years old, of No. 215 Quincy street, Dorchester, was taken to City Hospital suffering from the effects of an assault which, she claims, was committed by a man and his wife near her home. She told the hospital attendants that the man knocked her down and after kicking her, his wife pulled her hair. She says she intends to ask a warrant for their arrest.

HURLS BOTTLE AWAY, KILLS HER NEIGHBOR

Philadelphia, July 16.—For throwing an empty bottle from an upper window in the general direction of her back yard, June 15, Mrs. Anna Moskyrnicki, forty-three, was arrested on a charge of manslaughter.

Her arrest followed death of Andrew Tsellopoulos, forty-three, a neighbor. The bottle had struck him on the head, breaking his neck.

ST. MARK'S 'BODY AND SOUL' CLINIC HEALS MINDS OF 50

'DEMON OF FEAR' IS ROUTED

Unable to Work for Years Patients Are Restored to Health

New York, July 16.—The phantom demon of fear was driven from the minds of fifty men at the "body and soul" clinic at St. Mark's-in-the-Bouwerie and they will soon be able to resume their places in the world, it was announced.

These men had been suffering from fear of one form or another to such an extent that most of them had not worked for ten or fifteen years.

Physicians say they have been completely restored to their normal state, but will be detained for treatment another day or so to preclude any possibility of their slumping back to the slough of despondency.

200 REGISTERED.

The clinic began its second week today with 200 patients clamoring for a "comeback" to mental health and happiness registered. The first week was considered so successful that treatments will be administered indefinitely. Dr. Edward Spencer Cowles, neurologist and director of physicians in charge, said:

The work of those in charge is to implant so firmly in the minds of patients the habit of right thinking that the cure will be permanent.

Treatment is similar to that given by M. Coue, the noted French exponent of auto-suggestion.

METHOD OF TREATMENT.

It is a thrilling thing to see the battle between entrenched fear and its foes as constructive suggestion hammer the demon into retreat and hope and ambition rush in to reoccupy the mind that was held captive so long by the phantom intruder.

New light comes to the eyes of the patients. Hope enters their bodies and surges through their beings as they begin to realize they have places in the world and work to do like other men.

A new feature of treatment to be instituted will be recreation hours when patients will be taught to play games and mingle in the society of their fellow beings.

The work is being conducted by physicians, metaphysicians, psychologists and ministers who treat their patients with morning lectures, personal talks and prayer.

GREEKS BESTOW DECORATION ON BOSTON BOY

Word was received in Boston today that Isidor Shaffer, of No. 167 Saratoga street, East Boston, had been decorated by the Greek Government at Athens. He has been made a Chevalier of the Royal Order of the Holy Saviour. This is one of the highest honors that can be bestowed upon a foreigner by the Greek government.

Shaffer, with 20 other Americans, was honored at impressive exercises in the student Degree of Hetaires Actions, for their work with the American Red Cross following the Smyrna disaster.

Shaffer, born in East Boston in 1900, was graduated from East Boston high school in 1917. He went to Washington as a stenographer in the United States Food administration, became private secretary of the general counsel, then private secretary to the chairman of the United States Shipping Board. He resigned in 1919 to enter the oil business in Oklahoma and Texas. He served as official stenographer to Governor Cox on his campaign tour and in 1921 was appointed private secretary to John Barton Payne, secretary of the Interior. He went to Greece at the time of the Smyrna disaster.

SOMERVILLE MAN FLEES HOSPITAL

New York, July 16.—Hospital authorities of the Broad Street Hospital here have appealed to the Boston police to aid them in their search for Gilmore Smith, a sailor, of Somerville, who escaped from the hospital, where he was under treatment for a serious leg injury.

Smith, who was employed by the McAllister Towing Line, was injured in the left leg in an auto accident. After months of treatment, he was able to hobble around the hospital by means of a pair of braces constructed by social workers in the hospital. He was allowed to leave the hospital for a couple of hours to try out the braces.

Smith went out and failed to return. Alarmed hospital attendants made a futile search for him in the vicinity. A call to the Seamen's Institute revealed that he was not there. The New York police have been notified and they are scouring favorite haunts of sailors on the waterfront.

FLIGHT TO COAST SET FOR WEDNESDAY

Mitchel Field, N. Y., July 16.—Unfavorable weather conditions have caused a tentative postponement until Wednesday of the second attempt of Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan to make a daylight flight from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast; it was announced by Lieutenant Edwin Johnson, in charge of preparations for the second flight which was to have begun this morning.

Lowell, July 16.—Five-year-old Ollie Richardson of No. 21 Watson street was saved from drowning in the Wamesit Canal by Henry O'Hara and John Sullivan. He fell into the water while playing.

U. S. TO REFUND MILLIONS OF INCOME TAX

Washington, July 16—Millions of dollars will be refunded to income tax payers according to an opinion rendered to Attorney General Daugherty, that dividends received by stockholders in a corporation from the distribution of earnings or profits of another corporation accumulated prior to March 1, 1913, are exempt from taxation.

Secretary Mellon asked the Attorney General:

"In cases where one corporation has received from another corporation distributions out of earnings or profits accumulated by such other corporation prior to March 1, 1913, or out of increase in value of its property accrued prior to March 1, 1913, may the receiving corporation after having first distributed all of its earnings and profits accumulated since Feb. 28, 1914, distribute to its stockholders exempt from tax, the amount so received by it from such other corporation?"

The answer was yes.

'Drowned by Fish' Is Verdict in Man's Death

Detroit, July 16.—"Drowned by a fish" has been written by authorities opposite the name of Lawrence Wimberly, thirty-seven years old, who met death in St. Clair River.

Accompanied by George B. Hornell, Wimberly rowed to the middle of the stream, dropped a fishing line overboard and went to sleep. A fish swallowed the bait and began tugging at the line, which Wimberly had tied to his arm. Awakening, Wimberly upset the boat and was thrown into the water. The line became wrapped about his arms so that he could not swim and he drowned.

READING ACTOR LOCATED IN MONTREAL

Charles Young Abbott, eighteen years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Abbott of Reading, missing for three weeks, has been located in Montreal.

Young Abbott organized a theatrical troupe of his own, and equipped with an automobile truck fitted with stage scenery, lighting effects, costumes, and other accessories of the stage, started out to play fairs, carnivals, society festivals and small towns. The troupe went broke in Colebrook, N. H.

Mail forwarded to Abbott was returned to his parents. Nothing was heard of Abbott.

While playing in a Montreal theatre, Abbott chanced to read a story about his "mysterious disappearance" in a Boston newspaper, and promptly wired his parents.

Mob Youths Who Threw Clothing of Girl Overboard

New York, July 16.—Captain and crew of the excursion steamer Grand Republic, returning from a holiday cruise, early today rescued from an infuriated mob of passengers, two youths who had tossed overboard the clothing of two young women.

While the orchestra played the banana lament, the boys, "to get even because the girls joked a date," they said, threw hats, coats and umbrellas over the side. The dance turned into a riot, several hundred passengers threatening to make the culprits dive for the missing apparel.

ONE KILLED, 2 HURT IN CRASH AT LAWRENCE

Lawrence, July 16.—William Nelson, twenty-four, died in Lawrence General Hospital today of injuries received in an automobile crash on the Andover-Lowell boulevard during the night. James Gordon and Alexander Duke are in the hospital seriously injured, but are expected to recover. Details of the crash are lacking. The three men are residents of Shawsheen Village.

"Prices realized on Swift & Company sales of carcass beef in Boston for week ending Saturday, July 14th, on ship ments sold out, ranged from 19.50 cents to 24.50 cents per pound and averaged 21.44 cents per pound."—Advt.

N. Y. 'BLACK BELT' COMBED FOR GOVERNESS' ASSAILANT

Narragansett Pier, R. I., July 16.—Drawn by the promised reward of $6,000 for the capture, dead or alive, of Tom Johnson, giant negro, who brutally assaulted Mrs. Mary Llewellyn, governess at the Frazer home here, hundreds of persons are combing New York's "Black Belt" for the negro.

Search in New York's upper East Side began when it was learned Johnson took passage Tuesday night on a New London boat for New York.

Chief of Police Smith, informed that a man answering the description of Johnson had been arrested in New London, went to New London to question him. He failed to identify him as Johnson.

J. P. MORGAN BUYS ESTATE ON LONG ISLAND FOR SON

Concord, July 16.—J. Pierpont Morgan has just purchased for his son, Henry Sturgis Morgan, a 14-acre summer estate at Locust Valley, Long Island, N. Y. The estate joins that of Junior Spencer Morgan, 2nd, who married Miss Louise Converse, daughter of Mrs. Paul F. Pennoyer of Boston and Westwood.

Henry Sturgis Morgan married, on June 26 of this year, Miss Catherine Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, 2nd, of Commonwealth avenue, Boston, and a lineal descendant of John Quincy Adams of Revolutionary fame. The estate just purchased is within a short distance of the estate of the elder Mr. Morgan at Center Island.

COLLISION IN NORTH SEA; TWO STEAMSHIPS FOUNDER

London, July 16.—Three large steamships were in collision in the fog in the North Sea, according to Lloyds. The British steamship Sheridan collided with both the Spanish Begona No. 5 and the Swedish Eide-sida. Both Begona and Eldorado are reported to have gone to the bottom. The crews were saved and landed at Yarmouth. The Sheridan proceeded without assistance, although she was partly damaged.

THREE KILLED AS AUTO CAPSIZES IN DANBURY

Danbury, Ct., July 16.—Three persons were killed and one probably fatally injured when an automobile in which they were riding overturned while descending a hill on the Danbury-New Milford State road, four miles east of Danbury.

The dead are: Archie Fewell of No. 156 Henry street, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tyler of Danbury. The latter two died in an ambulance while being taken to Danbury Hospital. Fewell was killed instantly.

DRIVE IMPOSTER FROM NEWPORT

Charges Woman Bewitched Her

MRS. ARTHUR JAMES AND THE YACHT ALOHA

Newport society leader who was a victim of Otto Hartman, an adventurer, whom she took to be Morris Duane, intercollegiate tennis star. It was aboard this yacht, owned by Millionaire James, that Hartman was lavishly entertained.

IMPOSTER RUN OUT OF TOWN

Driven From Newport After Being Entertained by Society for Two Days

Newport, R. I., July 16.—Entertained for two days by the socially elite as Morris Duane, the Yale-Harvard intercollegiate tennis captain, Otto Hartman, adventurer, was run out of town by Chief Tobin when the imposition was discovered.

For two days Hartman was wined and dined, courted and feted, lionized and petted aboard the palatial yachts of multi-millionaires, here, while Harvard and Yale battled with Oxford and Cambridge for the college tennis supremacy of the world.

Mrs. Arthur James, wife of the millionaire chairman of the Newport Casino Lawn Tennis Association, mistook Hartman for Duane, captain of the Yale-Harvard combined team, when she saw him mingling with the athletes on the courts. While fashion took about the same on anybody

Hartman took his cue. Mrs. James' lead was followed. "Duane" was lionized. He was a guest at the victory ball aboard the Aloha, the James' private yacht. After an all-night celebration the party broke up, and "Duane" started for his "hotel."

Kenneth A. Shaw and a fellow guest offered to give him a lift to his "hotel." "Duane" accepted, and directed them to the Hilltop Inn. After dropping him, the young men became suspicious. "Duane" was not at the hotel when they returned. He was not even registered. Chief Tobin escorted "Duane" to the city limits when he found him sleeping in Washington park with two sailors.

PULLS HAIR IN STREET BATTLE

Mixup Follows Visit of Dorchester Wife to Fortune Teller

Mrs. Matilda Spinelli of No. 253 Quincy street, Dorchester, had been ailing for some time. She went to a fortune teller to find out what was wrong with her.

"You are being bewitched," the fortune teller informed her.

"By whom?" demanded Mrs. Spinelli.

"For $15 I will tell you."

She paid the $15.

"You are being bewitched by Mrs. Lillian Mauriello."

Mrs. Mauriello is a pretty young woman who lives at No. 216 Quincy street. Mrs. Spinelli determined to take steps to stop the spell which had been laid upon her.

When Mrs. Mauriello passed by the Spinelli home, Mrs. Spinelli accused her of being a sorceress. While Mr. Spinello held Mrs. Mauriello's arms, his wife attacked her from behind and pulled out handfuls of hair.

As a result of the attack Mrs. Mauriello fainted and today is at the City Hospital for treatment.

Mrs. Angelino Mauriello, a sister-in-law of the injured woman, was a witness to the alleged attack.

Modesta Mauriello, husband of Lillian, said today he would ask warrants for both Spinellis, charging attack. The Spinellis, on the other hand, will ask a warrant charging Mrs. Mauriello with trespass.

BOY IS KILLED BY POISONED BERRIES

One boy is dead and another boy, his brother, is dying at the Quincy Hospital following a blueberry picking party in which the two ate blueberries which, it is alleged, had been sprayed with poison.

The children are 4-year-old Lee Carlson, who is dead, and Carl, ten years old, the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Carlson of No. 37 Wilson street, West Quincy.

Carl E. Carlson

The two children left for the first blueberrying trip of the season and wandered into a field near their home. They found blueberries plentiful and were tempted to eat. They did not know that the whitish yellow powder on the berries was to kill the bugs.

They returned home after filling their baskets and confided to their mother, Mrs. Mary Carlson, that they had enough there to make several blueberry pies.

Several hours later, however, Carl lapsed into unconsciousness and was followed soon after by his smaller brother, Lee.

Physicians give no hope of saving Carl.

"The trouble is," said one, "we don't know what particular poison we are dealing with."

Mr. Carlson, who is an engineer, is completely heartbroken, having been subjected to a series of misfortunes. An older son has just recovered from serious injuries received in an auto accident. His wife was in bed several months with pneumonia.

London.—Only one non-commissioned officer of the "Noble Six Hundred" is now living and he has reached the age of ninety-two. He is Edwin Hughes, troop sergeant major of the 13th Hussars.

Still Hope for the Flapper, Says British Cleric

New York, July 16.—There is still hope for the flapper, in the opinion of Rev. John A. Hutton, pastor of Westminster Church in London, who arrived today on the Baltic to preach at the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church.

"I feel sorry for the young man of today who has striven so hard to win the heart of a young lady and then experiences the shock of having some rich old profiteer come along and buy her," said the clergyman, but he added optimistically:

"But I think that the general moral lassitude which was so general after the war is fast disappearing."

NOTE REVEALS QUINCY MAN IS BIGAMIST

Thomas Hart Wilson, war veteran, formerly of Quincy and more recently of Portland, Me., is being sought by police and army officials.

Wilson has at least two wives, it is alleged, and is wanted as a deserter from both the Canadian and United States armies.

Following the war Wilson left the Canadian forces and came to the United States with an English war bride. He took up a residence in Quincy, but deserted his wife soon after their baby was born. Mrs. Wilson was forced to obtain work to support herself and baby.

A few days ago Mrs. Wilson received a letter from a girl in Maine, who signed herself "Mrs. Thomas Hart Wilson" and who requested information as to her husband.

Investigation brought out the fact that Wilson had married Miss Margaret Conley of No. 51 State street, Portland, and that he had joined the United States army. He deserted both the army and his second wife after a few months in Portland.

10TH FACULTY MAN QUITS AT AMHERST

Amherst, July 16.—George Scaichard, associate professor of chemistry at Amherst College, resigned today from the college faculty because, according to a statement accompanying his resignation: "After the loss which the college has sustained, it no longer seems possible to accomplish here the purposes for which I came to Amherst."

Scaichard [illegible] he tenth Amherst professor to [illegible] lexander Meiklejohn out of [illegible] and the fourth alumnus of the college to resign from the faculty.

BOSTON COUPLE SEIZED IN DRUG RAID

Albany, N. Y., July 16.—Walter E. Brown, asserting to be a salesman for the D. M. D. Products Company of Buffalo, and who gave his address as Hemenway street, Boston, is held in $10,000 bail here on a charge of possessing drugs. Georgia Brown, twenty-four, asserting to be his wife, is also being held in $1,000 bail.

Both are in Albany County Jail. They will be given a hearing on Friday.

The couple were arrested in the Ten Eyck Hotel opium and morphine valued at $1,000 was found in their possession.

They had been assigned a room next to that occupied by Joseph Branaky, of New York city, Chief Federal Narcotic Agent of New York State. Branaky had arrived at the hotel a few hours previously and had sent for John A. Sheehan, local narcotic agent, for a conference.

AGENT SMELLED OPIUM.

As Sheehan was passing the room occupied by the Browns he smelled opium cooking. Reporting the fact to Branaky, both men went to the door of the room and knocked. There was a sound of hurried movement and then all was still. They demanded admittance, and received no response. Then they obtained an axe and broke in the door. Brown was found standing by an open window. The girl, a handsome brunette, was sobbing in his arms. The drugs were found in a suitcase.

While they were searching, Patrolman Church arrived. He had been struck in the back while on the street by several packages containing opium, and finally an opium pipe came sailing through the air and landed at his feet.

FORTUNE IN BONDS.

In the suitcase also was found gilt edged stocks and bonds valued at several thousand dollars. It is the theory of Branaky and Sheehan that the Browns, in addition to being the leaders of a gang of international drug smugglers, are also travelling fences for bond and stock thieves.

A receipt for $6,000 which Brown had sent to Mexico from Rochester was discovered. Branaky says Mexico is a supply base for drug smugglers and he thinks the money was to pay for drugs. Brown had on his person $4,500 in Canadian currency and $500 in American currency. The woman had $850. Brown also had several checks signed with different names, which totalled $2,300. He had twenty-six suits of expensive clothes and the girl had thirty-eight dresses.

Neither Brown nor the girl would talk. Papers found showed they had been over all the Eastern and Middle West States.

DIED INNOCENT, PRIEST SAYS OF PAPPAS

"Paul Pappas died an innocent man." These were the closing words of the funeral sermon delivered by the Rev. Nestor Souslides over the remains of Paul Pappas, who was electrocuted for the murder of Alice Arsenault.

In a voice, breaking with emotion, and with tears for his countrymen, the Rev. Souslides declared his belief in the innocence of Pappas. He was the last clergyman to minister to Pappas and was in constant attendance at the condemned man's cell.

PAPPAS' LAST MESSAGE.

To the hundreds of his countrymen who thronged the modest Greek Orthodox Church on Winchester street, where the funeral rites were observed the Rev. Mr. Souslides delivered the last message of Pappas to this world.

"Tell the world I am innocent, and because I am innocent I will die a brave man," was the assertion of this humble Greek who paid the penalty exacted by law for the slaying of a human being.

Three times, Rev. Souslides declared, he pleaded with the condemned man for a confession or an explanation, and each time Pappas asserted his complete innocence.

Throughout the day a curious throng filed in to view the remains of Pappas. Native born Americans in as large number as the habitants of the numerous nearby Greek coffee houses. Women and children were in the majority.

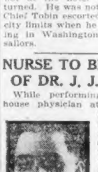
BURIAL IN MT. HOPE.

On the casket were two floral offerings reading: "From your brother Gregoria" and "With the deepest of sympathy, from the Cretan Association of Omonoia, N. Y. city." The Pan Cretan Society of Boston also sent a floral remembrance.

After the services, the funeral party numbering fifty cars set out for the Mt. Hope Cemetery, where the remains were interred.

NURSE TO BE BRIDE OF DR. J. J. SIRAGUSA

While performing his duties as house physician at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Brighton, Dr. James J. Siragusa, who is a medical inspector in East Boston, made the acquaintance of Miss K. Perle Hubbard of Millin, Mass., a nurse at that hospital. A romance followed and the marriage of the couple will take place in this city on July 25. Dr. Siragusa has been a general practitioner of surgical work in Boston, with offices at No. 261 Hanover street. Miss Hubbard is a graduate nurse of St. Elizabeth's Hospital.



Dr. Siragusa

AMBASSADOR HARVEY BACK ON DUTY SOON

Washington, July 16.—George Harvey, American Ambassador to the Court of St. James, who has been on leave in this country for several weeks, will return to his post at London, it was learned, it was said today at the State Department.

Ever since he cancelled his sailing on the Leviathan on July 4, there have been reports that he might not return to England, but in response to inquiries to day, it was said definitely that he would do so.

BEVERLY MAN KILLED BY FALL IN TRENCH

Beverly, July 16.—John E. Holden, forty-five years old, of No. 98 Lovett street, Beverly, cashier of the Marshall & Moulton Express Co., was killed when he fell twenty feet into a trench on Hale street. His neck was broken. He was found by Frank S. Hansen, a Beverly fireman. Medical Examiner George A. Stickney said death was accidental.

Gives Bath Party to Use Up Gas in Meter

In order to use up all the gas in the quarter-meter, Mrs. Annie Lerman invited the neighbors to her apartments at No. 164 Intervale street, Roxbury, to take their weekly baths. She explained that she was moving out of the place, and did not want to leave any gas behind. Several neighbors availed themselves of the opportunity, but last night she was still figuring out what to do with the remaining gas.

PITTSTON COAL MINE STRIKE CALLED OFF

Pittston, Pa., July 16 (I. N. S.).—The strike of Pennsylvania and Hillside Coal and Iron Company mine workers scheduled for this morning has been called off. Ninety members of the General Grievance Committee voted to cancel the contemplated walkout and ordered the men on strike at two collieries for the past week to return to work pending adjustment of their grievances with coal company officials.

STRUCK BY LUMBER, BADLY INJURED

Stephen Powers of No. 11 Clinton street, East Boston, while unloading lumber from the Steamship Bratsprig today at the army base, South Boston, was struck in the back by a piece of lumber that fell from the chane at hatch No 1 of the steamship and suffered internal injuries. He was taken by the police ambulance of Division 4 to Haymarket Relief Station.

RIOT CALL TO STOP WOMEN IN FIGHT

Spectators at No. 50 Barton street, West End, witnessed an encounter between two irate women which rivaled the Dempsey-Gibbons bout in intensity, if not in science. Milk bottles were wielded and then a hand-to-hand encounter ensued.

A riot call brought three policemen, who had all they could do to quell the battle.

The two women, Mary Gleznick, 32 years old, of No. 39a Charles street, West End, and Mrs. Mary Kovell, 28 years old, of No. 42 Barton street, also West End, were to air their troubles further in court this morning.

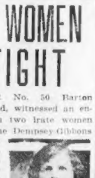
After the encounter, the two women, covered with blood, were rushed to the Haymarket Relief Hospital. Each had suffered scalp wounds. They were treated and returned to their homes, by the way of Station 3, where they were booked.

Gossip and jealousy was the cause of the argument, according to the police.

Mrs. Kovell alleges that Mrs. Gleznick had spread false reports about her.

"Yesterday," said Mrs. Kovell, "I went to Mrs. Gleznick's house and demanded an explanation. She refused to explain them.

"Later when I went down to the grocery store near my house, Mrs. Gleznick was there again. I got into a heated argument with her. Near her were some boxes of empty milk bottles. She seized one and hurled it at me. Not to be outdone I retaliated in a like manner."



Mrs. Mary Gleznick.

ENTER AT BOSTON, COMMONS HEARS

London, July 16 (I. N. S.).—Conditions confronting immigrants at Ellis Island was brought up again today in the British House of Commons when a member inquired whether the United States had been officially notified of the situation. Ronald McNeill, answering for the Foreign Office, said such representations had been repeatedly made.

Asked whether he was aware that emigrants could go to Boston and there enter without detention and if he would recommend that British emigrants use Boston instead of New York, Mr. McNeill said he must consider.

FLOUR CAUSES STOREHOUSE CRASH

Orange, July 16.—A three-story storehouse belonging to the Minute Tapioca Company here collapsed carrying with it a $75,000 stock of tapioca flour. Each floor was piled high with the flour, which was placed in the storehouse in sacks.

The weight of the flour caused a strain that was more than the building could withstand. The crash came wholly without warning waking the entire community. No one was in the building at the time and no one was hurt.

THREE BADLY HURT IN CRASH OF AUTO

Worcester, July 16—Three persons were seriously injured when an automobile, operated by George Rhode of this city, crashed into a railroad bridge between West Brookfield and Warren. The injured are Eliphia Lemire and Mary L. Lemire, her sister, both of Southbridge, and Oliver Dube. They were brought to a hospital here, where their condition was reported as serious.

Margaret Larkum and John Dimont, both of Worcester, received minor injuries.

Tax on Beards

AMONG the many curious taxes, Queen Elizabeth's tax on "every beard over a fortnight old," is the most unusual, although the baby tax of 1605 runs close. A duke had to pay $150 on the arrival of a son.

THE WAYS OF A HUSBAND—By ANN LISLE

A Splendid Sequel to the Famous Story of Wedded Life, "When a Girl Marries"

HOW THE STORY STARTS

Jim and Anne find happiness again on a honeymoon spent in the apartment of Betty Winston, loaned for the occasion. They go to Dreamwold for a Sunday dinner with Jeanie and are met in the grounds by Rosa, who ignores Anne. Rosa advises the discharge of Mabel Storrs to save the big salary. This Anne resists. Evvy helps Anne arrange her apartments and a dinner is given as a housewarming. Phoebe grows hysterical on receipt of Carlotta's wedding invitation. Betty speaks to Anne about Ralph's fondness for the latter.

By Ann Lisle

"AND you'll pay it in love," I said quietly, turning toward my dressing table and adding over my shoulder, "I think that comes as an answer to my prayers. I couldn't ask anything better for Neal than this gentle thought of him in the midst of your own grief."

"My grief!" said Jim bitterly. "When I realize I'll never hear Phoebe's voice again I can't bear it."

"Oh, Jim!" I cried. "My heart's breaking for Neal—and aching for Phoebe. I know how you—"

"You're heart's breaking for them," Jim cut in, his words coming in a torrent. "But it almost broke for yourself this afternoon, Anne, things aren't the way that when of a Rosa made them look. Don't you know what torture it is to me to realize that I'd have been with Phoebe last Sunday if I hadn't let Rosa drive me away—"

"Rosa?" I reeated mechanically.

Jim Explains

"I'd run a thousand miles to get away from her demands and chains, and the need of caterer to her because she's Ramon Cordova's wife. I had to go. Besides I had a man to see. But I'll never get over the ache of remembering I might have been with Phoebe then. I've only seen her once for a minute or two since the baby came. I have that to remember. And it's torture to have such a regret when you don't dream—Oh, Anne, maybe I hurt Phoebe!

"It's poor logic!" I cried, wondering what there was I could do.

"You say it standing across the room," Jim muttered in a broken voice. "I don't blame you. I know what Rosa made you think. I see her hand everywhere. That telephone message for you to call me—

Yes, yes, Jim—I know," I interrupted. "It doesn't matter—now."

But he swept on.

"Can't you see that I've got to tell you? Ruth Gregory was at a house-party with Gracia MacAvoy. They dined at the Inn. But the MacAvoy's had guests—a lot of them. I wasn't one. I was there with a business man. Miss Gregory introduced me to her friends. Our meeting was accidental. Her recognition—his mere introduction from her—gave me their cordial welcome. She's a personage. But Miss Gregory's interest in me isn't—"

"Oh, Jim!" I cried. "Don't think you have to explain to me. Don't you know I trust you?"

"You trust me?" repeated Jim, slowly. "That's because you're so honest and fine." His voice rose to a sweep of sudden passion. "But do you love me—as Phoebe loved Neal? Do you—need me?" he cried.

I held out my arms.

Morning After

Early on the morning after Phoebe left us I hurried to the apartment she had made a home for Neal. I wanted to be there for breakfast in order to make sure that Neal didn't start out for the ordeal of the day without food to fortify him. There wasn't a doubt in my mind that Pat had clung to his purpose of sending Neal to complete the purchase of his option from the crusty old Tompkins man who had held the strip of land against long months of bidding from Carlotta and Pat.

All the way my mind was in a turmoil. I ached with pity for Neal in his loneliness. And perhaps I pitied him the more because of the fine loveableness which had won him some favor even from a notorious skinflint and crabbed misanthrope such as Bartly Tompkins.

Pat himself opened the door at my knock.

"'Tis yourself, Alanna," he said gently, taking my hand in his and leading me into the apartment.

There is the room where the nurse and the baby. Little Carol was being given a sun-bath. I looked at the kennel with an ache in my heart because of the little mother she'd never know.

"A fine little lass," said Pat, obtruding nothing and seeming able to answer my thoughts. "Will you be going in to Phoebe?"

"Is Neal—there?" I asked.

Pat shook his head.

"Neal was off half an hour ago. I had a talk with him last night as I was after telling you I'd be doing, Alanna. He listened fine—saying nothing—and nodding his head for a yes. And then 'twas this morning he said he'd be off at once, hatching out as if he couldn't get enough of a start. He's a fine lad — and he has a head on well as a heart."

"It's scarcely half-past eight now," I protested. "I think it was wrong to let him go so early. He had till 11, didn't he?"

"The earlier the better in a case like this," said Pat drily. "Bartly Tompkins may let him cool his heels for a while. And 'tis our Neal will be better there than here in any case. So now I'll be seeing you have a bit of breakfast and we'll be waiting for Jeanie and Jim to be along."

ABOUT YOUR BEAUTY

—By Maria Jeritza—

The Famous Prima Donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company and One of the Most Beautiful Women of the Day

BECAUSE of your regime of daily exercise, you have doubtless reached the point where you breathe deeply even when you are not thinking about it. Deep breathing has become a habit with you.

This is certainly true if you have faithfully practiced the exercise I have suggested from time to time.

If you are not a deep breather, I beg you to start today to form the habit, for it will bring you increased joy and strength and beauty.

Here is an exercise that will force you to breathe deeply. Take it as the first of your daily "stunts."

And by the way, if it makes you any happier to do exercises to music, why not turn on a record? Choose a tune that is lively and lilting, not a lullaby which may tempt you to indulge in another "forty winks."

All natural movement is an expression of harmonious thought. And music also is an expression of harmony. So they fit well together and the music may help you to express your own inner harmony.

Be sure to follow your exercises with a tepid bath, vigorous rubbing and a final rub with massage alcohol as pure as you can purchase.

Stand in your gymnasium suit or bathrobe before your wide-open window, very straight, with your arms straight over your head, palms out. Inhale deeply and slowly, silently counting eight.

Now hold this deep inhalation of breath while you count eight and finally expel your breath while you again slowly count eight.

This will give the air a chance to sweep through all the air-cells of your lungs, and baths and refresh them. Repeat until a slight dizziness advises you that the flood of oxygen is as much as your lungs can handle until they grow more use to such a wealth of fresh air.

But as you become accustomed to deep, vigorous breathing, all tendency to dizziness will disappear for your lungs will grow strong enough to cope with the deepest draughts of air.

THE HE MAN

SHE FLEW WITH HIM TO THE JUNGLE

By George Agnew Chamberlain

IT seems that she was—er—suddenly carried away by an impulse in conjunction with a flying-machine, but you will be glad to know that Trevor here has—er—has played the man all through and you are permanently relieved from any further responsibility in the matter. I don't wish to say beyond repeating the apology due you from my entire family."

"Not a thing to say, you young sycophant of a whipper-snapper!" thundered the red-faced magnate. "Do you think I came down here to listen to your maiden speech, accept a dirty apology and get out with my tail between my legs? Well, I didn't. I came down here to show this interloping vagabond of a scavenger where he and his—wife—don't get off."

Gleam in His Eye

A gleam crept into Trever's eyes, the same gleam that had shone there when he had shot MacCloster, but it turned into his slow assuring smile as his gaze met that of Andrea and took note of her alarm. He remembered that only ten minutes before he had promised on the honor of a lover to be seen only and not heard.

"Aren't you a bit late for that?" asked Harry, unperturbed. "They seem to be running before the wind already and with a fair lead." He lit a cigarette and snapped the dead match through the open doorway.

"You think so, do you?" said the magnate, his eyes snapping malignantly. "You've probably never heard of the shipping ring but I'll tell you this—the line that takes these two—two—two whatchu-may-callums as passengers is ruined. They'll stay in Africa till they rot."

Andrea stifled a lawn—. "Robert," she said in her coolest and best society voice, "if Sir Hammar is going to force us to wait here for one of your own steamers to put in, I think you'd better collect that thousand pounds reward."

It was the end. The magnate gasped, sprang up and fled, pursued by a smoke arrow propelled from Harry's rounded mouth. Aunty Gwen pursed her lips but kept on knitting; she could not, however, altogether hide the laugh that was in her snapping eyes. Andrea arose and dropped on her knees beside her ancient relative.

"Oh, Aunty Gwen," she begged, "won't you please let me introduce Robert? He's the dearest, most delightful, strongest and weakest man that a lucky girl ever loved."

Aunty Gwen dropped her knitting and took Andrea's face in her hands. "Why, my dear," she said, her black eyes brimming over with kindly mischief, "of course you can introduce him. I've just been putting it off because I was longing to kiss him, a perfectly strange young man, and I hated to have it over with."

Hotel in Darkness

That night when all the hotel was in darkness and silence reigned Andrea and Trevor stood together by the coping at the edge of the cliff and looked across the moonlit bay to the far-away line of the villea trellis; at their feet and before them stretched an open world, bathed in kindly and opalescent light.

Andrea's eyes started at the top of the zigzag path and followed it deliberately down the cliff-side until they reached and swept the gleaming crescent of the beach; then they rose and stared at the placid moon. Nine weeks, no more, had passed since last this scene had held her, yet into them was packed the germ of all her life almost to the exclusion of preceding memories. She felt a welling within her of all the major emotions and frightened, turned from them to hide her face against Trevor's shoulder. Her arms slipped around his neck and clung to him.

"Oh, White Man," she whispered, "my Wonder Man," plunderer of my heart, if desire to give is any measure, how far you have led me along the shining road!"

THE END.

"BLACK OXEN"

STARTS MONDAY, JULY 23

"My prediction is that this novel will interest more women than any novel since Vance Thompson's "Eat and Grow Thin." It is more than likely that its more sensational theme will overshadow its higher merits as an entertaining and well planned novel containing a clever and delicious expose of the feminine mind. I can but suggest that if you are a male and want a job for your little complexes, diseases and vanities, read BLACK OXEN. I do not need to suggest this women read it. They will soon enough. If they find out what it has to do with the rejuvenization of youth and beauty."—Burton Rascoe—N. Y. Tribune

"In the next few months, perhaps weeks, BLACK OXEN will become one of the best selling books in Chicago and by the middle of Spring any woman who has not read it will find herself hopelessly out of the talk of the town, for it has many elements of popularity—it is as timely as today's newspaper. It has both mystery and suspense and a love story. It is more than that anything F. Scott Fitzgerald or Robert Herrick ever attempted, and yet entirely respectable, and it marks the high point of achievement for Mrs. Atherton as a novelist."

A rather poor family unexpectedly came into possession of a fortune. They purchased a large farm with hens, cows and pigs. One day the little daughter of the family was showing a visitor about the place. "Do your hens lay many eggs?" he inquired interestingly.

"Oh, they can," was the haughty reply, "but in our new position they don't have to."

"A novel by Gertrude Atherton is always a literary event. Before it is opened a safe wager can be made that the story will be worth-while. BLACK OXEN is brilliant, with a fine insight. Logical and with a careful eye to reality, the story never loses the keen interest which it possesses from the very start."
—Portland Oregonian.

"The conflict of a woman's soul and its influence upon two lovers of diametrically opposed characters, make an absorbing story. There are some superb scenes with moving, dramatic situations, and the amazing gift for color and action with which Mrs. Atherton is endowed, make this a story of intense vitality and magnificent literary attainment."
—Buffalo Courier.

"BLACK OXEN is a drama which for psychological penetration and insight into the deeper recesses of woman's nature has rarely, if ever, been equalled in fiction."
Honolulu Star-Bulletin.

"In BLACK OXEN Mrs. Atherton has produced an absorbing romance of imaginative feminine psychology. Quite the finest thing she has done since 'The Conqueror'. It is a story with the unique quality of romance brilliantly realized. Unique in the originality of its conception. The central theme is one that comes but once in a generation, instinctively one returns to the Pesude Chagino of Balzac for a story of such potential mystery, fanciful symbolism and startling originality."

FLAMING YOUTH By WARNER FABIAN

The Great Reform Novel of the Year, Baring Innermost Secrets of Luxury-Loving Class

START THIS BIG, NEW STORY TODAY

Mona Fentriss, young, beautiful and the wife of a consulting engineer, has been told by her physician, Bob Osterhout, who is in love with her, that she has only a short time to live. Mona gives a gay party, telling Pat to go to bed, but the latter borrows a sister's dress, steals downstairs and has "a taste of life." Connie goes to a dance at the club and takes too much punch. She is brought home by Fred Browning, with whom she had uneventfully spent the night. Sel Thorpe gives Pat a "real" kiss. Mona dies and Constance receives a call from Cary Scott, her mother's first admirer. Scott is much taken with Pat. A party is planned for the Dangerfields to christen the new swimming pool. A thunder storm puts out the lights and the guests go into the water without clothes. Dee modestly hesitates on the balcony and then—the lights came on, revealing her in a blinding glare. One of the bathers is saved from drowning by Cary Scott. Pat and Cary Scott become interested in each other. Pat returns from school and declares she is "out for trouble" this time. Scott and Pat confess their love and Scott, whose wife is living, says good-by to her. Pat pretends to Dr. Osterhout that she is about to have a baby. He asks her to marry him. Then she admits she has tricked him and that it is Dee who wants his aid. Cary Scott comes back and Pat succumbs to him. Dee's husband is badly hurt.

NOW GO ON WITH THIS ENTHRALLING STORY.

Fentriss' "Business Engagements" Remained a Constant Quantity

"WOLLASTON mustn't see Dee," said Scott.

"No; he mustn't."

"Can't you stop him?"

"If I can reach him."

"Cary, you must stop him."

"Is she still in love with him?"

"Terribly."

At the James house they found Dr. Osterhout. Pat went up to Dee after holding Cary Scott to the Knoll directly after dinner. Going out with the physician he asked how serious James' case really was.

"As serious as it could possibly be," was the grim reply. He'll live."

"Then Pat was right. He'll never be any better?"

"Not much. A paralytic. With a good deal of suffering."

"Can't you help him die?" muttered Scott.

The medical man turned an uncompromising look upon the other. "When I acquire the wisdom of Deity, then I'll assume the prerogatives of Deity. Not before."

"It's a merciless attitude. In a case like this—well——"

"In a case like this," the physician cut him short, "the man's life may be valuable to others if not to himself. And suppose after I'd killed him, as you casually suggest"—the other's gesture of protest did not serve to stop him—"and some new operation was discovered that would relieve the kind of case where should I stand with myself?"

"Is that likely?"

"It's most unlikely. But it's possible. In any case, we doctors do not kill."

"You don't give a thought to Dee."

A ripple of pain twisted the harsh features. "I'm trying not to. My business is with my patient."

"Does he know?"

"Yes. He wormed the truth out of me. He wants Dee to get a separation."

"A separation? I don't understand. What is his idea?"

"To relieve her from being tied in a—a—scandal, as he says. He's taken to thinking of others besides himself at this late date, has T. Jameson James. A close look at Death sometimes works these miracles."

"Trying to make his peace with Heaven?"

"No. He's honest in this, just as he has always been in his selfishness. He's thinking only of Dee."

"Does he really care for her, Osterhout?"

"I think he'd die without her."

"Isn't there a good chance of his dying anyway?"

"Nothing to bank on."

"What does Dee say to the separation idea?"

"Won't listen. Just turns away and stops her ears."

More than ever convinced that Wollaston must be kept away from Dorrisdale, at all costs, Scott put in the hours between his talk with Osterhout and his appointment with Pat, striving to locate the Englishman on the long-distance telephone, but without success.

Upon his arrival at the Knoll, Scott found only Ralph Fentriss in possession.

"Pat is just starting back from Dee's," said the ostensible head of the Fentriss household, after a hearty greeting. "She telephoned. Pretty rough on Dee, this, isn't it?"

"She's standing up under it like the sport she is," said Scott. They chatted of local matters, Fentriss being patently restless. At the sound of Pat's step on the threshold he said with relief:

"You'll excuse me, Cary. I've got a business engagement downtown."

The visitor repressed a smile. So Ralph Fentriss's evening "business engagements" remained a constant quantity. A casual sort of father. Had he been less casual, had Pat been less unprotected—a throb of remorse and self-contempt sickened Scott to the core of his heart. How could he have let himself be so swept away! . . . Pat stood before him in the doorway, and at once his bitter self-accusation sank into nothingness before the delight of her vicarious charm. How could he have helped being carried away, loving her as he did!

She tossed her hat on the table, her gloves at him and herself into the arm chair.

"Now we can talk," said she. "You begin."

At their morning meeting it had seemed to him that the indeterminate and hovering tragedy of the James household had aged and sobered Pat, given more of the womanly to her elfin fascination. Now she seemed again all gamine, provocative, elusive, challenging. He stood looking down at her gravely.

"Owl-face!" she mocked, protruding the tip of a red tongue.

"Pat, will you marry me?"

The smile died from her eyes and lips. "How could we? You're married."

Get Free

"I'll get free."

"How can you?"

"I'd rather not tell you."

"You've got to tell me," she retorted imperiously.

"Yes," he admitted. "I've got to, if you insist. "You've the right to know."

She softened. "Have I? Tell me, then."

"I have—evidence." He spoke with an effort.

"Against your wife?"

"Yes."

"Why haven't you used it before?"

"I haven't wanted to. And—I considered that it would no be entirely honorable."

"If it wasn't honorable before, how is it now?" demanded the keen Pat.

"I don't know that it is," he muttered. "But there's another question of honor now, a paramount question, between you and me."

"Tell me why it wouldn't be honorable to use your evidence," persisted Pat; ignoring the other issue.

"You're making it very hard. It's true that she—my wife—has been unfaithful. But that was after we had been long separated in everything but the formalities, and morally I was in no position to blame her."

"You'd been untrue to her?"

"Yes."

"With another woman. Were you very much in love with her, Cary, the other woman?" she asked wistfully.

For a moment he hesitated, too long a moment, for a flash of hateful intuition shot through Pat's quick brain. "There was more than one. There may have been a dozen. Oh, I think you're revatching!"

"I'm not going to lie to you, Pat. I regarded myself as free of all responsibility to her——"

No Responsibility

"You're free of all responsibility to me," she choked. "Don't think that I want——"

"No. I am bound to you by the strongest tie I have ever known. I love you."

"You've loved a hundred other women," charged Pat, savagely revelling in her exaggeration.

"I've loved no one as I love you." Despite the banality of the words there was in his speech a quiet force that calmed and convinced her. "Not so that I ever wished to be free and marry."

"Of course," she said loftily, "there's no reason why I should be jealous of your past."

"It is your future that I have been jealous of always," he replied. "That is a thousand times harder to bear. And now I am asking you to give it to me."

"You'd do a dishonorable thing, a thing you consider dishonorable, to be free?" she asked.

"To marry you," he said doggedly. "Yes. There's nothing I'd stop at."

She gave her little, delighted, crow. "I believe you wouldn't. But I'm not going to let you."

"You can't prevent me."

"I wouldn't marry you if you did."

"MORNING STARS

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

"We were talking about Jupiter at the Commodore, and I said that all stars or planets rising before 12 midnight are evening stars. But B. says all stars or planets rising in the east are morning stars. Will you settle it?—B. and E., New York."

YOU are right, but the term "morning star" or "evening star" is applied only to planets. Mr. "B." should reflect that both stars and planets must necessarily and always rise in the east. They cannot rise in the west, any more than the sun can. No celestial body could exist in the west unless it was traveling through the sky at an angular speed exceeding the rate of the earth's rotation on its axis, which takes place from west to east.

If B. could pay a visit to the planet Mars he would probably find such a body as that, the inner satellite, named Phobos, which travels around the planet faster than the planet rotates on its axis, and goes in the same direction. So, on Martians, we think, moon Phobos rise in the west, and it runs so fast that it thus rises three times in twenty-four hours.

It is the hour and not the place of its rising that makes a morning or an evening star. If it rises after midnight it is called a morning star, because then it cannot be seen until after the morning, or a. m., hours have begun. They begin at midnight. On the other hand, if it rises before midnight it is an evening star, as you have correctly said, because then it can be seen before the evening, or p. m., hours have ended and before the morning hours have begun.

Confusion probably arises from the fact that Venus, the most conspicuous object that appears alternately as morning or evening star, is never seen as evening star except in the western part of the sky, while when morning star it is always seen in the eastern part of the sky. This is because its orbit around the sun lies inside the orbit of the earth. But Jupiter, whose orbit is outside that of the earth, may be seen in the east in the evening as well as in the west, and may remain visible all night long. As soon as the midnight line which runs eastward from the earth crosses it Jupiter becomes technically a morning star, because then it rises after midnight.

When Venus passes from the state of evening star to that of morning star, as she crosses the noon line, which is the opposite extension of the midnight line, she is invisible, of course. Venus is between the earth and the sun and therefore necessarily passes, at each inferior conjunction, directly over the sun's disk. As soon as she has passed the noon line and is therefore west of the sun, she becomes morning star.

Mercury, whose orbit is still nearer the sun than that of Venus, is also now visible as evening star every night, but she, too, is part of the time invisible, owing to the sun's glare. Neither Venus nor Mercury is ever seen in the zenith, but the meridian. All of the other planets, however, sometimes appear as evening visible at different points to either the west or the east or the middle of the sky. What we see before midnight that we call evening star, and what after midnight we call morning star. But Venus is the matchless queen of the sky where ever she shines, and Jupiter the imperial king, though Mars in opposition sometimes rivals and glares.

LUCKY DAY FOR LOVE

ACCORDING to this day's planetary government things should move along at an interesting pace and open the way for important change or journey. These should bring a degree of financial success and other advantages, but withal there is an augurs for a setback or stubborn obstacle.

The judgment should be quick and the perception keen, nevertheless it may be difficult for some to meet and overcome the baffling situation. However, romance is in the ascendency and it is a lucky day for love.

FOXY GRANDPA STORY

ANTS TALK TOGETHER

LOOK OUT, Foxy Grandpa, don't step on those ants or it'll rain!" shouted Bobby.

"You foolish boy!" I laughed. "Who told you that?"

"Why, I've always thought that," Bobby answered.

"Well, I suppose years ago some kind person who loved animals and was interested in insects thought it would be a good way to prevent people from stepping on the poor little ants, so he made that statement, and it was quickly believed. Now, that I come to think of it, I used to say the same thing when I was a boy myself. I wouldn't step on an ant for the world then, nor would I now. They're wonderful little creatures."

"Why are they wonderful, Foxy Grandpa?" queried Bobby.

"Run into the house, Bobby," I suggested, "and bring me that empty candy box you'll find lying on the table."

And off like a flash dashed Bobby and promptly returned with the empty candy box.

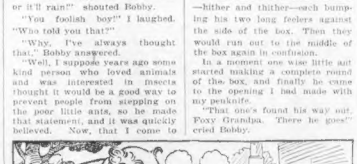
"Now, bring me that piece of glass over there, will you?"

When I had the box and the glass ready I used the box for a scoop, gathered up a couple of dozen ants and covered the box, earth and ants with the glass, so we could watch them.

At first the ants scurried around —hither and thither—each bumping his two long feelers against the side of the box. Then they would run out to the middle of the box again in confusion.

In a moment one wise little ant started making a complete round of the box, and finally he came to the opening I had made with my penknife.

"That one's found his way out, Foxy Grandpa. There he goes!" cried Bobby.



©1923 International Feature Service, Inc.

But the thoughtful little ant didn't go out. He stood perfectly still for a moment, then right-about-face, and crawled over to the ant nearest him. He went right up to him, reached out his feelers and touched the other ant on his feelers. The next ant touched his neighbor on the feelers with his feelers, and so on they communicated with each other until they all knew that there was a door for them to get out of their prison.

"Well," sighed Bobby, "I'll never step on an ant again as long as I live, no matter whether I want it to rain or not."

Fine for Skin Exposed to Sun or Flying Dirt

Ordinary Mercolized Wax

These days the face needs special care and attention. Flying dust and dirt, the beating sun, are severe on any skin. Their despoiling effects are best overcome by the application of pure Mercolized Wax. This keeps skin and pores in a cleanly condition, the complexion beautifully white and spotless. Reddened, tanned, freckled or roughened cuticle is actually absorbed by it; one ounce of Mercolized Wax, obtainable at any drug store, is sufficient to completely renovate a soiled complexion. It is used like cold cream, allowed to remain on over night, and washed off in the morning.

MERCOLIZED WAX

WHEN DID IT HAPPEN?

1.—When did David Livingstone, the explorer of Africa, die?

2.—When did the great suffrage demonstration, in which 10,000 women participated, take place in London?

3.—When was the Battle of Buena Vista fought?

4.—When did Victor Emanuel III. became King of Italy?

5.—When did the Sepoy Mutiny in India occur?

ANSWERS

To Saturday's Questions.

1.—The ancient Grecian kingdom of Sparta attained its greatest power between 403 and 371 B. C.

2.—Magellan sailed from Spain on his famous voyage around the world September 20, 1519.

3.—The English Magna Charta was granted and sealed by King John, at Runnymede, June 15, 1215.

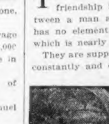
LOVE AND MARRIAGE

By ELINOR GLYN

THE general notion of platonic friendship is an intimacy between a man and woman which has no element of sex in it, but which is nearly as warm as love.

They are supposed to be together constantly and enjoy each other's conversation and mental tastes. But they are not supposed to give each other thrills! Each is free to love someone else.



Elinor Glyn

The whole thing is a fallacy, of course! If young people are sufficiently interested in one another to desire to spend all the time they can together, the element of love or physical attraction is holding one of them, if not both—although it may be unconsciously.

There are many cases where one of the two is in love with someone else—generally the man—and he comes to some kind girl for sympathy, and none of their conversations turn upon mutual feelings. The girl listens to him and ministers to him from affectionate good nature. This looks like platonic friendship on the outside—but if it goes on either the young man will forget his former sweetheart or the girl will find love creeping into her heart for him.

There are many sheep in wolves' clothing among men who like to decoy girls into what appears to be platonic friendships. Even both parties may be deceived, but they are floating toward the falls, just the same.

But if you are determined to know the sweets of platonic friendship, then be sensible and get the love business (which is the only foundation for the possibility of the thing) over as quickly as you can, and then settle down into the companionship of the mind or a strong mutual interest in games.

When you are dressing to dine alone and dance with Walter, and you find you are tingling with pleasurable excitement as you dab the unnecessary powder on your fresh young face, don't be a goose and tell yourself that the emotion you are feeling is only platonic. Own frankly that it is the natural manifestation of youth and love and will require your best wits to guide wisely.

"BLACK OXEN"

STARTS MONDAY, JULY 23

"Sensational novels have not been lacking among the more than twenty volumes of fiction that Mrs. Atherton has given to her multitude of readers. We venture to assert that BLACK OXEN is the most sensational of the lot.' The theme is not new in fiction, but you may be sure that Mrs. Atherton handles it as it was never handled before by any writer. It is a theme forever new and forever near to the heart of woman. I can well believe that no novel on the Spring list of any publisher will occasion as wide discussion."—Boston Herald.

"Comrade" Atherton's genius is not essentially self-critical, nevertheless, it is indubitably genius, genius of a higher quality than that possessed by the artist who struggles with words and phrases to achieve his ideal of perfection.

BLACK OXEN may be considered her most brilliant book up to date—once begun it doesn't permit itself to be dropped until finished. It will more firmly seat its author in the unique place she now occupies in our literature."—Carl Van Vechten in N. Y. Nation.

ONCE OVERS

Copyright, 1923, by International Feature Service, Inc.

IT IS YOUTH WHICH IS ATTRACTIVE TO YOUTH.

Do not be a foolish old woman or a silly old man.

You cannot make yourself into the likeness of a young person when you are no longer young.

What is worse than a woman old enough to be a grandmother who tries to imitate a girl in her teens?

Is there anything more silly than a man of grandfather age trying to pass for a debonair youth?

And strangely such men think they are attractive to young girls.

Say, you silly old fellow, what is there about you to interest an active and really attractive young woman?

She can claim the society of fresh-appearing and interesting young men.

Why should she waste her time with you?

If she does it is money she wants—no other reason.

Youth appeals to youth for companionship, and while there may be a feeling of reverence and love as for a grandfather, or a grandmother, or even a father or mother, it can never be the same sort of attraction as youth for youth.

CRACKLINGS

Life has been compared to a race, but the allusion still improves by observing that the most swift are ever the most apt to stray from the course.

* * *

Nothing is so great an instance of ill manners as flattery. If you flatter all the company, you please none—if you flatter only one or two, you affront the rest.

The gradual departure of all deeper signification from the word civility has obliged the creation of another word—civilization.

Medbury Says—

By John P. Medbury

A NICE cool job for this hot weather is teaching your wife to drive an automobile.

THE average man has to use up three cars teaching her how to drive one.

THERE'S a certain set method for running every machine, but most women want to drive it their own way.

ONE dame was so used to undressing the children that she thought you stripped the gears the same way.

SHE wanted to drive the car with the brake on, so that if anything happened it wouldn't take her so long to stop.

ANOTHER woman insisted upon reversing the car all the time. She drove backwards so much that her husband took the headlights off the front and put them on the rear.

SHE used to back the car up every hill, so that if she got stuck she wouldn't have to turn around in order to come down.

HER husband told her the car wouldn't go unless she turned the switch on. She said, "If it's the switch that makes the machine run, then why do you buy gasoline?"

ONE guy said his wife ought to do all right at the wheel, because she drove his car fine from the back seat.

SHE kept working the pedals in and out all the time. Her husband asked her if she was driving an automobile or riding a bicycle.

SHE passed three or four machines without honking the horn. She said she wanted to listen to what the people in the other cars were talking about.

THE only way her husband could get her to put her hand out when going around corners was to buy her a new diamond ring.

THEN she turned off all the lights on the car to see if the pedestrians could see it sparkle in the dark.

HER husband told her to buy a quart of heavy oil for the machine, but the grocery store didn't have any so she used Thousand Island dressing.

THE water in the radiator was boiling one afternoon and absent-mindedly she dropped a couple of eggs into it.

IT'S a wonder she didn't take the moto-meter off and set a tea kettle in its place.

ONE woman heard that their car had a self-starter on it so she got into the front seat and sat there for an hour and a half waiting for it to commence.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

BILL BATSON was a superman, perfection was his slogan. He never classed as "Brogran," as Brown might do, or Hogan. I never knew another soul youth, maiden, man or woman but failed sometimes to hit the goal, but Bill seemed more than human. Whatever Billy undertook, he carried to a finish; if he set out to fire the cook his nerve did not diminish.

Bill's brother was a kindly chap but sometimes bound to stumble, he met with many a dire mishap, yet no one heard him grumble. 'Twas strange, folks loved Bill's brother Dick far more than Bill the wonder. They all declared: "The boy's a brick!" and laughed when he would blunder. We can't say why it should be thus, but no one loves perfection, the boy whose feats are fabulous fills others with dejection. The highbrow with the mammoth brain whose wit could swiftly floor us, shows off his learning all in vain and never fails to bore us!

"This experiment in rejuvenation, this terrible struggle between an old mind's love of power and a young mind's need of love, all these tricks of plot and theme are for her, just wheels on which to run her story, and for us, bait to catch our interest, to lure us into the novel. The description is what she writes for, and what the good reader will read for. It is as a social description, done with power that one must praise BLACK OXEN."—Buffalo News

"Is the finest of a long line of brilliant achievements. It will create a new place for Mrs. Atherton and will be discussed everywhere. BLACK OXEN is by far her greatest story, and to me at least, the most absorbing novel by anyone which I have read in a couple of years."—Charles Hanson Towne—Bookman

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

Can industry, railroads, business and wage earners enjoy prosperity for any considerable period if our enormous agricultural population are suffering depression?

That is the question most often discussed in responsible circles today.

What is the right answer?

* * *

At the first glance the reply is an emphatic "no." How can the economic body be well if so vital a part of it be sick?

* * *

But a robust constitution usually turns sickness into health rather rapidly. American industry, American finance, American business is today sound, healthy, vigorous.

May it not be, therefore, that this state of health will bring about recovery of the sickly part of our body economic?

* * *

Why, for example, are our wheat prices unduly low and why products selling at prices unsatisfactory to the raisers?

We are repeatedly told that this is mainly because European customers and consumers have been unable, and still are unable to buy in normal quantities.

But this suggests two thoughts. First, low prices for staple commodities invariably encourage wider consumption, and wider consumption lifts prices. We shall in all probability witness this usual course in the matter of agricultural products. Again, the unprecedented purchasing power of America's own vast army of wage earners cannot fail to bring about heavy consumption of meats.

* * *

The outlook is that bankers will soon extend financial assistance to European borrowers, both governmental and corporate, and thus place European purchasers in a position to order American commodities and merchandise distinctly more freely.

* * *

The abnormal rarely lasts very long. It is normal for things to gravitate towards normal. Abnormally low agricultural prices are not likely to continue for a long period. Much of the talk in Europe concerning the abundance of supplies there should be accepted with reserve, since it is customary for buyers to endeavor to depress the market.

* * *

It is worth noting that Premier Baldwin's announced intention of endeavoring to bring the Allies together to arrange a workable agreement with Germany brought an encouraging response in sterling exchange and francs, as well as a rally in the mark.

* * *

The customary midsummer dullness in American business has unquestionably been intensified during the last three months by fears that prices would decline seriously. Prices have declined, as recorded in some detail in this column the other day.

But it may be significant that last week's price changes included distinctly fewer declines than the preceding 47 declines and 29 price advances.

The stock market likewise exhibited greater resiliency. Average quotations moved up fully two points from the previous week's low level, and close students attach importance to the extreme dullness which followed the reaching of the year's minimum quotations—last week witnessed the smallest daily turnover for the year. The deduction drawn by experts is that the market had become comparatively "sold out" and that, consequently, the professional operators who had sold short experienced difficulty in finding back stocks without forcing prices upwards.

Meanwhile, the bond market has continued to exhibit consistent firmness.

* * *

Wall Street bears have been talking more loudly and alarmingly about the plight of our farmers and the sad state of business throughout the West than others have been talking. Both these sample instances from many similar utterances:

James A. Simpson, president of Marshall & Field Company, Chicago: "The profits in our inventories, crops, full employment and reasonable money rates. We expect satisfactory business to prevail."

Melvin A. Traylor, Chicago, chairman of the Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers' Association: "With crop prospects better than average, with no large inventories, with no great volume of advance buying, and the volume of orders on hand large, we feel that the outlook for business is good for the rest of the year."

Eugene Meyer, Jr., managing director War Finance Corporation: "There is too much talk about dangerously large stocks of wheat. The figures for the world stock of wheat in proportion to the world's annual production and consumption are not, in my opinion, dangerous."

Daniel Willard, president Baltimore & Ohio railroad: "I am optimistic."

Colin Campbell, general sales manager Chevrolet Motor Company, Detroit: "General business throughout the country is very good with but the slight slowing up in various lines of business which usually occurs in July and August."

(Copyright, 1923, by B. C. Forbes)

Hawaiian Stock Dividend

Cahu Railway & Land Co. of Hawaii, capitalizing reinvested profits, declared $9 per cent. bonds, all dated July 1, 1923, with maturities in each of years 1924 to 1953 inclusive, to Arthur Perry & Co., at 100.64.

GULF STATES IS SOFT, RUN OFF OVER 2 POINTS

Initial weakness in the New York stock market today was followed by a small rally, after which trading became quiet. Call money opened at 5 per cent. Gulf States was a soft steel, and the most active of the group run off more than 2 points.

Losses of a point or more came in American Can, American Car & Foundry, Baltimore & Ohio, Canadian Pacific, Chandler, Consolidated Gas, Continental Can, Cerro de Pasco, du Pont, Delaware & Hudson, Corn Products, Mack Truck, Crucible, New York Central, both Pan-American lines, Vanadium Steel and Stewart-Warner.

There were 2-point setbacks for Baldwin Locomotive and Famous Players.

Phillips Petroleum sold at its previous 1923 low at 25¾.

If there is to be a sub-normal business next year or late this year, it is fairly well-established by now that the approach will be gradual. Stocks of goods are not dangerously large, volume of deferred construction is extensive and state and national authorities are sure to expedite improvement projects in the event of falling prices and trade stagnation. Talk of a long depression is due to be based than just after the armistice.

The difference between good times and bad in this country represented but a small percentage in the volume of trade. With a pronounced scarcity of labor still prevalent, with a manufacturing momentum sufficient to generate activity for months to come, with the country always growing, the apprehension over need of new buying ought not to bulk large in the general equation for weeks to come.

And out of the European chaos and complexities may eventually come such measure of stabilization as has characterized Austria, and thus remove the menaces of uncertainty and war. There are plenty of bases for optimism if one looks around.

Wall St. Gossip

Central and President Felton of Chicago Great Western are at Old Majestic for a pleasure trip. They will be away until Sept. 1.

NEW YORK, Chicago & St. Louis is authorized to issue $4,275,000 of equipment trust certificates.

EIGHT-TRACK system for Long Island Railroad from Brooklyn to Jamaica and merger with Pennsylvania Railroad is recommended in report of Long Island Committee of 100.

WESTERN rails are using increasing quantities of cheap fuel oil in place of coal.

IN first 5 months of 1923 U. S. Smelting's bituminous output was cut to 328,700 tons from 405,700 in same period, 1922, mirroring rail's growing use of fuel oil.

FUEL oil is now selling around the lowest prices on record west of the Mississippi.

OWENS Bottle salesmen are optimistic on business in most sections.

PLANTS of Libbey-Owens Glass Co., in which Owens Bottle interests are dominant, are at 90 per cent. capacity.

DIRECTORS are said to be considering extra dividends on Libbey-Owens.

MAXWELL Motor, with position much improved over last year, has seen its "A" stock sold well under 1922 low.

CORONA PETE is delivering by contract million barrels of Panuco crude oil to Mex Pete at Tampico.

AMERICAN Cotton Oil merger with any other company is not contemplated. Company is expected to benefit greatly by adjustments which have been going on.

IMPERIAL Oil, Ltd., subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey in Canada, is exploring Hudson Bay Co. properties of 1,500,000 acres.

OIL TELEPHONE'S seven-year convertible gold 6s dated Aug. 1, 1918, $36,538,900 had been converted as of May 31, leaving $12,008,300 outstanding.

WHEAT AT NEW LOW IN CHICAGO MARKET

Chicago, July 16.—All the grains sold off, with wheat touching new lows immediately. At Liverpool wheat was weak and down 1¼ to 1⅝ pence at 2 o'clock. Prices here were: Wheat—July 98 to ⅞, September 74¾ to ⅞, December 100¾ to ⅞. Corn—July 82 to 82⅛, September 74¼ to ⅝, December 62⅜ to ⅝. Oats—July 35⅝ to ⅜, September 34 to ⅝, December 36. Rye—July 62⅜, September 62⅝.

Waltham Bonds Sold

Waltham has sold $176,000 of various 4½ per cent. bonds, all dated July 1, 1923, with maturities in each of years 1924 to 1953 inclusive, to Harris, Forbes & Co., at 100.64.

TRAVEL BRIEFS
NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL

Two hours will be cut from the running time of the "Olympian" the famous train of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway beginning July 29, according to information received at the local office in the Old South Building. The cut will reduce the running time between Chicago and Seattle and Tacoma from seventy-two hours to seventy hours, the fastest time ever maintained between these two terminals. The total distance is 2,189 miles, of which 650 miles is electrified. Recent improvements in the electrified zone make possible the shortening of time.

TRAFFIC CLUB GOLF.

The members of the Boston Traffic Golf Club will hold the third tournament of the season at the Wollaston Golf Club on Tuesday, July 24. Tournament play will start immediately after lunch. Prizes will be awarded for the best gross and best net scores.

ELKS RETURN FROM ATLANTA.

About 200 of the local lodge of Elks who made the trip to the Atlanta convention of the order under the guidance of the Boston Tourist Company of No. 192 Washington street, Boston, will return on Monday, via steamer "Belmont" from Savannah. Among the interesting side trips arranged was a visit to Tybee Island, the principal seashore resort of the South. The manner in which the arrangements of the trip were handled by the Boston Tourist Company has elicited warm praise from the delegates.

"ORIENTAL" STOPS AT GLACIER.

In order to give all passengers enroute to and from Seattle and the Orient an opportunity to make a brief inspection of the Glacier Park Hotel at Glacier National Park, the famous all-steel "Oriental Limited" of the Great Northern Railway is being stopped regularly for fifteen minutes at Glacier. Under guidance of the Pullman conductors the passengers are escorted to the hotel where the world-famed Forest Lobby proves the principal attraction.

Here giant fir trees of the Northwest appear in the outer walls and as columns supporting the spacious rustic galleries. The lobby, which is called "The Great Tree Lodge"—a most appropriate description, for it seems a natural part of the surrounding native forests. This famous lobby, more than any other feature, serves to make Glacier Park Hotel unquestionably a mountain hostelries.

The tiers of balconies are supported by twenty-four husky firs, each forty-two feet high and from four to five feet in diameter, with bark retained. The rafter railings and lower grounds are fashioned with huge tree trunks. Added to these are "Christmas Tree" decorations and a wealth of wild flowers.

About the galleries and walls are trophies of the chase—skins and antlers—bright blankets, basketry and totem poles, which lend a gay touch in perfect harmony with the prevailing forest browns.

There are paintings—both by artists and Indians, and on the second gallery is the "Buffalo Skin Tepee," for centuries the Council Lodge of the Blackfeet Indians, a gift from that tribe to the hotel.

The "Indoor Camp Fire" is a unique and attractive feature. A bed of brick and stone set in the lobby floor, in the center of which knots of fragrant pine crackle merrily. Here is truly a camp in the forest, but stripped of every discomfort.

It is expected that the opportunity of visiting the hotel will attract numerous passengers who otherwise would not have the time to visit the hotel.

GREAT LAKES TRAFFIC HEAVY.

Travel on the Great Lakes via the Great Lakes Transit Corporation is heavier than ever known, and exceeds that of last year, according to Percy L. Shuett, New England agent. In seasons past, June was the heaviest traffic month on this route, with the other months light. This season the requests for accommodations indicate that July may establish the record, and there is every indication, according to Mr. Stuart, that traffic will continue heavy right up to the end of the Lakes' season.

The Great Lakes Transit Corporation operates a fleet of 24 steamers, between Buffalo, Erie, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Milwaukee, Duluth, Superior, Houghton, Hubbell and Dollar Bay. The passenger ships of the fleet are the "Tionesta," "Juniata" and "Octorara"—steel steamers 361 feet long, of most modern construction, identical in size and appointments. Only first-class passengers are carried. The cruise from Buffalo to Duluth and return—2,230 miles—is the longest inland water cruise up the world, and for many combined with luxurious comfort and educational value is considered to have no equal in the world.

Full information regarding rates, accommodations and sailing dates may be obtained from any Boston tour or travel bureau, or direct from P. L. Stuart, New England Agent, Room 639, Old South Building, Boston.

NEW GERMAN STEAMER.

When the new S. S. "Columbus" now receiving its final touches at Bremen, sails from New York on October 13, the North German Lloyd line will have in its service the newest and most luxuriously equipped vessel in the America-to-Germany service. This new steamer will be the largest German steamer constructed wholly since the signing of the Armistice and will also be the largest vessel engaged in the direct New York to Bremen service, via Channel ports. It is a twin-screw oil burning steamer of 32,000 tons, with accommodations for first and second class passengers. The Boston Tourist Company, of No. 192 Washington street Boston, and the New England agents of the North German Lloyd Line, and have about 300 agents throughout New England. It is considered probable that a number of these will make the trip to inspect the new vessel prior to her departure from New York.

ST. ANNE SHRINE PILGRIM GETS SIGHT BACK

Fiskdale, July 16—One of the greatest religious processions yet held in honor of St. Anne occurred here today, the procession of men, women and children—blind, halt, and lame—painfully toiled its way up a grassy slope to the little shrine which was erected in honor of the mother of the Virgin Mary.

There was a great light shining in the faces of the hundreds of pilgrims. They came from far-off sections of the country to be cured of their afflictions.

PRAYERS REALIZED.

For one, a long-prayed for hope was to be realized.

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Corset, 65 years old, residing in Prospect Park, Springfield, was among the pilgrims who wound their hopeful way through the grass-covered knolls to the secluded shrine.

Mrs. Corset had been blind for nine months. Doctors had declared there was no cure.

When Mrs. Corset reached the shrine, she knelt in prayer. She said simply:

"What a surprise it was to me," Mrs. Corset later told. "I owe it all to St. Anne."

It was during vespers in the chapel, following her descent from the shrine, that Mrs. Corset announced the restoration of her sight.

The procession was headed by Rev. Joseph M. Marceau, pastor of the church. Following was a number of altar boys carrying beneath a gorgeous canopy the marble statue of St. Anne. Directly behind the altar boys came a file of boy scouts from St. Joachim parish, Chicopee Falls.

At the tiny little shrine, nestling in a shaded alcove, Father Superior Deydier, head of Assumption College, Worcester, addressed the congregation in prayer, while a choir of a hundred raised voices sang.

MANY CURES REPORTED.

Then the pilgrims knelt reverently, faced the shrine, and in turn, joining voices repeated the Litany of the Blessed Virgin and the Litany of St. Anne.

That many cures have been effected at the shrine may best be understood by the great number of crutches, canes, braces and eyeglasses that have been cast aside by thankful pilgrims.

Father Marceau reports a score of cures here thus far this season.

brick buildings with 2,600 square feet of land. The total valuation is $74,000.

ROXBURY DWELLINGS SOLD

Walter Ballantyne has sold to Charles Pezzuolo the three-family house at No. 37 Renfrew street, Roxbury. The property is assessed for $3,200, of which $1,600 is on the land. The buyer purchased for occupancy.

J. J. Billington & Co. were the brokers.

A three-family frame dwelling at No. 19 Dana Place, together with 2,056 square feet of land has been conveyed by Ellen Dorsey to David J. Connolly. The tax valuation is $3,800, of which $600 is on the land.

As the River Hurries to the Ocean, So the Girl Must Hurry Into Matrimony

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

"Two are better than one; because they have a good reward for their labor.

"For if they fall, the one will lift up his fellow: but woe to him that is alone when he falleth; for he has not another to help him up."—Ecclesiastes, iv., 9 and 10.

Intelligent women have discussed with becoming solemnity the question:

"What must girls do to succeed?"

Needless to say, this eternal question soon degenerated into the customary marriage discussion.

But tell us, intellectual ladies, do you know what you are like when you discuss the advisability of matrimony? You are like drops of water in a river that discuss the advisability of rolling on down toward the ocean. Matrimony is your destiny, as a final landing in the ocean is the destiny of the little drops which, passing over the rough stones, purl and gurgle as you do.

Fair ladies, get out of your minds the notion that the individual of the present is of any importance. The human race, which began to flow over this planet centuries and centuries ago, will keep ahead in its pre-ordained matrimonial swing, whatever may be decided in Chicago drawing-rooms or in the huts of Timbuctoo.

The one important thing is marriage, and especially marriage of the finest samples.

As a matter of fact, there never was in all the world a really happy woman unmarried after a certain age.

She may be resigned, she may be self-sacrificing, she is very often beautiful in character, and beyond any question she has frequently refused to marry, since men are not crazy.

But the mature woman, unmarried, is really unhappy, and she knows it.

The kindness of Providence to men is proved, gentle ladies, by the fact that you have got to marry whether you want to or not.

Your doom is sealed on the first day of your early babyhood when you pick up a doll and pretend to nurse it. You might just as well discuss the advisability of breathing as the advisability of marrying.

As for your devotion to business, that is merely a temporary phase of civilization. In a short time the monstrous spectacle of a woman at work will not be seen anywhere on earth.

A certain number of centuries ahead, when the earth is fully peopled and the race is really adult and organized, every woman will be the mother of TWO children, no more and no fewer, and the care of them will be over while the women are still very young. After that women will devote themselves to the expression of the emotions, acting and singing, in which sphere they dominate.

After having made all the men in the world by producing them physically, they will make them intellectual and inspire in them their best efforts.

That is women's destiny, as we see it, and we diffidently declare it to be a pretty good destiny.

P. S.—The more ambitious women need not resent this on the ground that singing and acting would not satisfy them. Women will shine in all intellectual spheres in which intuitive knowledge is important.

They will be great in astronomy and prominent in studying universal problems outside of this earth, problems which in time will absorb the interest and efforts of men as foreign lands absorbed their interest in the days of Drake, Raleigh and Elizabeth.

Jail Sentences Needed

Colonel L. G. Nutt, head of the Federal forces engaged in stamping out the illegitimate use of opium or "dope," has been making a survey of Boston conditions and makes this encouraging statement:

My investigations here reveal the fact that the sale of liquor is decreasing. When violators of the liquor laws are drastically dealt with by the courts the traffic will soon be history.

This opinion which Colonel Nutt expresses is the result of his experience in the stamping out of "dope." He found that fines were altogether inadequate and that the "dope" pedlars did not begin to go out of business until the courts began to impose jail penalties.

It pleases us also to be able to call attention to the fact that Colonel Nutt placed great value on the services of the Hearst newspapers and magazines in the campaign against the use of "dope."

Bootlegging Druggists

Elmer C. Potter, chief Federal prohibition agent for Massachusetts, has made a report to Commissioner Haynes, the national agent, in which he says with respect to prohibition in Massachusetts: "Our greatest need is more severity in both State and Federal courts in dealing with offenders, although there is an increasing number of judges in the lower courts who are inflicting jail sentences."

Yes, and we understand that Judge Morris of the Federal Court has awakened to the necessity of imposing jail sentences, and that there is a great scurrying around among attorneys representing the bootleggers to keep out of Judge Morris' court.

The women have aroused themselves to the situation in the State, and they are making a campaign to enforce jail sentences. It will not be long before jail sentences will be the general and fines will be the rare punishment.

When that time comes we shall see that it is a great deal more difficult to get illicit liquor.

Something must be done also to stop the sale of liquor in drugstores. It is altogether too easy to get it there. If half a dozen guilty druggists were given a stiff sentence it would do them a lot of good, too.

RUMAINA GOING IN FOR GOLF

BUCHAREST, July 16.—Despite great popular protest it seems that Rumania is going to go in for golf.

After a year of obstruction, led by anti-foreign groups, the first golf course and club has been officially opened in Rumania, with the King and Queen officiating.

An American engineer, Colonel Greble, conceived the idea of introducing golf and country club life into Rumania.

THE VOICE OF NEW ENGLAND

No Attention Paid to Anonymous Communications

Acted Like Gentleman

Editor, Boston American:

It is no unusual case for ministers to kiss brides and show friendly affection. All ministers are not bad. They are human and lovable. Some can manage to be friendly with women while many others have not the courage.

What about Rev. George Lyman Paine? My opinion is he acts like a gentleman but would have been wiser if he was not so friendly with that woman. He was mainly to apologize to Lieut. Hague and his wife. They in turn should have done likewise—as they had caused him more trouble than he caused them.

GEORGE E. ZIMMER.

Good Wishes from a Gob

Editor, Boston American:

Our opinion of the Paine kissing episode is in favor of Lieut. Hague. What does Lieut. Hague get out of an apology after the clergyman went 100 per cent. instead of one-half of one per cent.?

Go to it Lieutenant. Best of luck from the gang on the U. S. S. Bridgeport.

THE HELPING HAND

Do Not Inclose Stamps. Letters Will Not Be Answered Personally. No Attention Paid to Telephone Calls. No Names Are Published.

Home Burned

Editor Helping Hand:

Our home and contents was entirely destroyed by fire. I have two little boys, two and five, and a tiny baby a month old. Any clothing or toys would be a godsend to them. I can make over adult clothing for them, and I would be very grateful.

A. B. C.

Baby Needs Fresh Air

Editor Helping Hand:

I wonder if there are any of the kind readers who could help me. I am in distress. I have a thirteen-months old baby. He has had his third operation and is in very poor health. I have to give him all the fresh air and care I can to get him to pull through. I have doctors' bills to pay and a little bill on furniture. I have no friend in the world. My husband is working only three days a week now, cut to fourteen dollars. Do you know of anybody who would like their laundry done at home—anything to help me make a dollar at home? I cannot go out, because I cannot leave baby until he picks up.

MRS. C. McI.

Offers Bed Spring

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a spring for a double wooden bed which I would be glad to give to someone who will call for it. (Uphams Corner.)

G.

Thank you. Your offer will be held for replies.

Offers Furniture

Editor Helping Hand:

I sent the baby food to the party and received a letter of thanks. I am glad to be able to help in your great work, and wish I could do more. I have a single white bed and spring, two white chairs, and a white bureau painted white, and some little girl to furnish herself a room. They are old-fashioned things, painted white, and some little girl will be glad to get them. I haven't any mattress for it, but perhaps some other reader has one. Please have some worthy person call inside of two weeks, as we are going away the first of April. (Mattapan.)

MRS. C. F. R.

Many thanks for all you are doing. Your generous offer of bed and bureau will be held for replies.

Needs Baby Carriage

Editor Helping Hand:

Is there anybody that has a baby carriage or stroller they would give to take out a dear little nine-months old baby girl? She has been out of doors only once since she was born for want of a carriage, and she is awfully white. I know she will crow for joy if she gets one, and I will be most awfully thankful.

MRS. E. B.

Just Out of Hospital

Editor Helping Hand:

Will someone help a woman just out of the hospital to a Summer in the country? I have made all arrangements for her vacation, but find her without suitable clothing. I am a working woman, and unable to buy new clothes for her, and my own are too small. I would be very grateful for any clothes, size 40, and would call for same.

H. M.

Family Needs Help

Editor Helping Hand:

My husband has been put out of work by the strike. For a while I worked out by the hour, but the strike has made it very hard for everyone, so I am out of work now, and it is a struggle to get along on the small wages my husband can pick up. I have three girls, twelve, fourteen and six. They are large and wear seven, fourteen and sixteen sizes, and the little one wears 8½ shoes. I would be very thankful for anything which anyone might send me to tide over the tight place we are in at present.

MRS. R. E. N.

Sent $5 to Mrs. W. T.

Editor Helping Hand:

I received your letter with the address of Mrs. W. T., and today sent her a money order for five dollars. I have requested to visit her with a view to make some arrangements to assist her.

J. S. T.

Many thanks. You are doing a great work.

Things for Mrs. K. W.

Editor Helping Hand:

I would appreciate receiving the address of Mrs. K. W., as I have a few things I think she could use, viz., a nice Summer hat, low strap shoes, a shirt waist, and possibly a coat. There may be other things also when she calls.

MRS. I. C. F.

Many thanks. She has been asked to call as you suggest.

Dresses to Give

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a jersey suit size 36 and a Summer dress the same size. If you know of anyone in need of these. Please advise as they will call.

MRS. T. W.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of Miss E. R., who will greatly appreciate them, and she has been asked to call.

Husband Hurt

Editor Helping Hand:

Is there someone who will send me some clothing. I wear size 18. Anything would be appreciated—gingham dresses, an old suit, or anything, as I can't afford to buy them, and can't go out, as I have none to wear. I have three children, and my husband got hurt, and is unable to work at present, and I can't work, as I am not strong enough, and have to care for my one-month-old baby.

MRS. C. L.

Other Offers

The editor wishes to express his sincere thanks to the following people for their generous offers of assistance to those in need. They have been sent the addresses they request.

OLD STAGS MUST NOT CHALLENGE YOUNG BUCKS

By Herbert Kaufman

WILLARD didn't go the distance—not enough gas left in his tank. There are no refilling stations for human motors. Thirteen extra years of vitality decided the fight. Firpo packed a clock in his wallop.

Gridiron, ring and cinder track belong to the young. Mid-age can't stand the gruelling pace of football, pugilism and sprinting.

Muscles stiffen, wind fails and arteries harden after thirty-five. The sapling whips with the blast; the mature tree creaks and sways.

A considerable while back, peoples were accustomed to adjudicate disputes by sending a pair of champions to scrap it out, and accepted the verdict of trial by combat. A primitive way to decide causes, but the mutual massacre of entire nations is still less enlightened.

Europe's situation, five years after armistice, indicates that arbitration with the gloves or foils would be quite as effective as the present ramming together of empty heads and treasuries.

Leaving it to Dempsey, Carpentier or Firpo, couldn't possibly make matters worse than the conditions which diplomacy has produced on the continent.

Judging by the management of their own affairs, they'd at least prove shrewder financiers.

The Diplomatic Eel Pot

Dr. Baldwin's much-vaunted compromise tonic isn't hitting the spot. Poincare complains that the remedy doesn't contain a very necessary ingredient—condemnation of passive resistance.

Germany, in turn, considers the cure as far too drastic for her impoverished and disordered system.

France, pending suggested corrections in the prescriptions, defiantly resumes original treatment of the Ruhr, occupies two more towns, and, if needs be, will hasten the collapse of Cuno's government to bring England to the scratch. Whenever mention is made of interallied debts the wily Quai d'Orsay pulls just such stunts.

Depend upon it, there'll be no settlement of the reparations question until Britain submits to collection of indemnities or cancels equivalent loans.

The father of all politicians was an eel.

Radio Pills to Cure Your Ills

Berlin should get in touch with Willis Vernon Cole, who sails for Paris to establish a mind-and-matter power station. He might have better luck changing Poincare's notions.

Get out your code book and cable Willis when afflicted with grief, smitten by disease, or in doubt of the market.

The professor heals and advises by wireless. Tune in and tone up! Connect with one of Cook's touring currents and thrill with health!

Francis Truth, for five dollars in advance, would give a handkerchief his master touch and speed his aura around the continent by appointment.

Postoffice detectives—what bigots those men are—raiding Truth's headquarters with a warrant for the misuse of the mails, found a room-high reel of acclamatory testimonials. One woman wrote that her cat fell out of the window, broke its back, and was instantly made whole by following directions.

Mr. Parker, also of Boston, had begun to sell $10,000 worth of Hindu Lucky Charms per day at 99 cents each when Federal inspectors halted his philanthropic career.

Stock exchange operators were his leading customers.

A first-class gobi shaman should clean up in this neighborhood.

Did you walk under a ladder or make a deal Friday?

Methuselah Wasn't a Cannibal

Surgeon Held, off on a chimpanzee search, agrees with Steinmach and Voronoff that the span of human life is largely measured by glands, but discounts the lasting effect of transplanting them.

Dr. Held intends to feed primates on special tissues and afterwards extract a serum. The fact that monkeys are not meat-eaters may slightly complicate his plans.

We are told that cannibals, devouring their foes to obtain courage, unconsciously hit upon a valid scientific premise, and are likewise reminded how Chinamen and sheep-herding races have consumed rejuvenating animal parts from time immemorial.

Vital statistics don't indicate that the practice has appreciably increased their longevity or valor.

Let's find Methuselah's diet and end the controversy.

Not One of Father's Friends

An Atlantic City hospital permits Russell George to dress wounds and perform minor emergency operations without presenting evidence of medical training. Nobody thought of asking for his certificate. Luckily, all the patients pulled through. Incidentally, a record any regular practitioner may envy.

London's famous bone-setter, recently knighted for his extraordinary success with fractures, hasn't a degree, either.

Which mustn't be regarded as an argument against the thorough investigation of hospital management. What one does another is apt to repeat.

Abraham Lefcourt believed that, or he'd probably yet be selling papers from a sidewalk stand.

Twenty years ago he started a little cloak and suit factory. The total capital was $200.

The great garment centre of New York—his promotion—shows that $200 is capital enough if confidence and imagination direct its action.

At forty-two he retires from a nation-wide business to invest a fortune of millions in skyscraper construction.

Young men picking at office doors with frat keys; place-hunters who use club connection and letters of introduction as job-jimmies, and influence burglars in general, won't be inspired by Lefcourt's example. There's no push in a man who counts upon pull.

Consequently a great many of them will be getting theirs in weekly pay envelopes when immigrant boys, compelled to rely upon their own resources, are taking title to blocks of real estate and stabilizing the future of America.

Opportunity was never one of "father's friends."
